SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS., Jan. 12.—Capt. David T. Gifford, late commander of the wrecked vessel Daniel Webster, the person referred to by Southland in the dispatch from Irkutsk, concerning the Gazette, says: Early in July, while at Point Barrow, the steward of the Daniel Webster informed Capt. Gifford that an old Esquimau had recently come up his residence with one of the local tribes and that he told a story of a vessel that had been crushed in the ice some time previously. Capt. Gifford shortly afterwards visited the Esquimaux, who conveyed to him, by aid of signs, the intelligence that far to the eastward a vessel had been crushed in the ice, and that four of her men were either sick or dead. With his limited knowledge of the language, Capt. Gifford was unable to learn which. After the Daniel Webster had been crushed in the ice, Capt. Gifford traveled to Point Belcher, where he joined the bark Coral and was afterward transferred to the schooner R. B. Hamby of San Francisco. On her way down the schooner stopped in Providence bay, comm only known by whalemen as St. Lawrence bay, for wood and provisions. This was about August 1st. The Russian corvette Strelock, with the Brenson expedition on board, had arrived in the bay about 48 hours before and was awaiting the Rodgers, which was expected daily. A number of officers of the corvette boarded the schooner, one of whom understood English. Capt. Gifford told the story given him as related above. Gifford suggested to the officer that the unknown vessel might be the Jeanette, but he says having told him he had seen a boat containing corpses. Neither did he tell the officers of silver spoons and other articles marked Jeannette. Capt. Gifford cannot conceive how such a misunderstanding could have occurred. He was explicit in his manner, taking pains to reproduce, as nearly as possible, the signs made by the Esquimaux. The vessel translated Gifford's words into Russian and told his companions wrote out the interview in native language. Capt. Gifford thinks the erroneous statement attributed to him may have been made by the fact that the schooner sailed before the arrival of Rodgers and left the Strelock at the mercy of the ice.

The Fate of the Jeannette Party.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Herald's St. Petersburg dispatch following was received to-day from Yakutsk: There is no direct news of the Jeannette. In accordance with orders conveyed in my telegram, inquiries along the shores of the government of Yakutsk and Tenisseik have been informed of the shipwreck and have been asked to make energetic research for the wrecked men who have not as yet arrived here. GEN. ANGUTCHENE.

Letters from Home.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Several letters for the men of the Jeannette, have arrived at the American office here.

News from the Jeannette.

Mr. Bayard, secretary of state, has just received the following telegram from our charge d'affaires at London, respecting the fate of the Jeannette and her crew: Danenhauer and five of the crew of the whale boat arrived at Jakutsk Dec. 17 and are comfortably lodged and all wants supplied. Melville and six men are expected soon. DeLong and the rest of the first cutter were not found Nov. 16th, the last date. Boulanga reported the Jeannette broken in as ten pack October 1st, 1879. It drifted with the winds and currents till June last and was crushed. HOFFMAN.

Readjuster Nominations.

RICHMOND, Jan. 12.—The readjusters' caucus renominated the following state officers: Secretary, M. H. Dyson, present incumbent; second auditor, Commonwealth, W. C. Elam, editor of the Readjuster organ; register of land office and superintendent of public buildings, Geo. Brockenbrough, present incumbent; treasurer, Thos. Reyley; superintendent of penitentiary, R. C. Williams, present incumbent; superintendent of public printing, R. F. Walker, present incumbent; auditor of public accounts, Massey, who refused to acquiesce in the various rules and the office passed for future nomination.

An Outrageous Verdict.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The trial of Hankinson Bros. for Justice Meech yesterday, for keeping a gambling house, resulted in a verdict of acquittal. It took the jury two minutes to agree on the verdict and fifteen to sign their names to it. As the verdict was announced, the Hankinson boys smiled audibly and the prosecuting attorney uttered several severe words. Robert Law who instigated the raid on Hankinson at the result, and Justice Meech throwing up his hands ejaculated, "May the Lord have mercy on your perjured souls." Some days later some of the jury were regaling themselves at the bar kept by the proprietors of the gambling house. There is great indignation in the city at the shameless way in which the case has been managed. Jury to go before a packed jury, and Mr. Phelps to carry the case to the highest courts. Justice the light but just condemned and it is expected that a lively war again st gamblers will be inaugurated.

An Affect of Books.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Some days ago all books belonging to the large circulating library belting firm of Geo. Hoffman & Co. disappeared in a mysterious manner. Soon after the books were missed it is stated out that Wm. Hoffmeister for the firm, was short in his accounts. He was placed under arrest and confessed that he had been systematically robbing the firm by entering the books for over one year, and induced a fellow clerk named Frank Hutchings to make way with the books. Both men were arrested, but no trace has obtained to the missing books, and the police released in hopes one of them might go to where the books were concealed.

Railroad Conference.

It is stated a new proposition for a settlement of the Reading war was favorably received at the conference yesterday, and another conference will be held to-day.

An Esthetic Dinner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Sam Ward gave a dinner to Wilde last night at his apartments in Clinton Hall, and so far as the decorations of the table were concerned, it was pronounced quite esthetic. Among the distinguished guests were Sidney Webster, Wm. M. Evarts, Wm. Hurlbert, W. H. Maxwell and Wm Stuart.

Necessary Delay.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Maj. J. W. Walker, ex-district attorney, and one of the assistants to the Territory of Montana, was about to leave Washington on last Saturday's coach, when the mail clerk quietly tapped him on the shoulder and informed him it would be necessary for him to delay his departure until he settled a little bill of $400 due the Metropolitan Hotel. The man was highly indignant, but his wrath was futile. He succeeded in effecting a temporary compromise with the hotel people, and started for Washington Sunday, where he hopes to secure the appointment as governor. His claim to be backed by Senator Mahone, who is stated to be his friend.

Mistook his Man.

BIG LYNCH, Jan. 12.—Lynch shot and killed a man known as "Big Dan," at Barker, one day last week, who had threatened to kill Lynch and the latter shot his wife, which he used with fatal effect.

Railroad Earnings.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Railroad authority says five roads were engaged in the famous railroad war from the east and west. In 1880 the earnings of those roads were $131,000,000 and last year $1.6,300,000. The net earnings in 1880 were over $50,000,000; this year, $48,230,000. The New York Central is the only road that shows a decrease in gross earnings. It is reported to the extent of 3 per cent. The Pennsylvania railroad shows a large increase, the B. & O. is about 1 per cent. and the Grand Trunk 7 per cent.

Pennsylvania Independent Convention.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Two hundred delegates to the Independent republican state convention met this morning. Charles S. Wolfe, Independent republican leader, and other independents were present. Speeches were made accusing the present management with dishonoring the party.

Sensible Indians.

NORTH FK, Jan. 12.—Llewellyn, agent of the Mescalero Indians is on his way to Washington to secure a reduction of the reservation to twenty-two square miles with which the reds are contented, leaving to the whites all unsold lands.

Large Cotton Sales.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 12.—The largest single sale of cotton made in the United States, was made to-day by M. H. Cleveland, of 5726 bales. The consideration in round figures was $280,000.

Choked by Foul Air.

CHILLICOTHE, Iowa, Jan. 12.—Thomas Waters and James Newton, miners, were overpowered by foul air in a coal mine here. Waters is dead and Newton will recover.

An Uncertain Election.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—It is not at all certain the Quay side will win in the Reading election, which commences to-day after several days voting.

Squaring Accounts.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—The bank examiner has received all the money due from Weeks to the Pacific bank, which will reopen very soon.

No Election.

ALBANY, Jan. 12.—The senate ballot for clerk and the house for speaker resulted in no election. Adjourned.

The Pennsylvania republican state convention meets May 10.

It is reported that the democratic state central committee of New York will break the legislative deadlock at Albany.

The president appointed Elipha let Whittlesey of the district of Columbia member of the board of Indian commissioners.

Efforts to extinguish a fire on board a schooner in Charleston, South Carolina, one seaman was drowned and two fatally burned.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Ex, Senator Orth says he is not in favor of changing the method of appointing house committees. This resolution has gone to the grave. It was referred to the committee on rules and a majority of the members of that committee believe the speaker's right to do so should be maintained. There is one vacancy upon the committee now created by the refusal of Orth to serve. Of the members Sparks, Robeson and Randall will oppose any change, while Blackburn is said to be inclined to favor it.

Indications are that the house committee on elections will send the Utah case back to the people of that territory for another election.

The secretary of the treasury this afternoon issued the 107th call for twenty millions in bonds of extended six-es, to be paid the 15th of March.

In the senate Ingalls to-day took the floor to defend the friends of pensions act, saying that Senator Beck should have exposed the fraudulent properties of the act before it passed. He offered a resolution that the act should not be repealed. Beck asked that the resolution lie over.

There is a strong pressure from churches in behalf of Campbell which the committee do not very well know how to resist. They don't like to give the seat to Campbell in the face of a large majority of votes cast for Cannon, and they will probably conclude to hold the election over again as the easiest way to dispose of the case.

In the case of the Miami Indian fund, the secretary of the interior has dismissed of the matter by awarding attorneys Vanderwenter and McDowell the amount of fees they claim, and ordering the retaintinder of the fund, about $200,000, paid to the Indians concerned.

Farwell introduced a bill fixing the compensation of local appraisers of the port of New York at $20,000, and at Philadelphia, New Orleans and Chicago $50,000.

Price, commissioner of Indian affairs, explained to the committee on appropriations the causes of the Indian deficit, to be cutting down estimates submitted and the greatly increased price of beef.

The house committee on ways and means have appointed a sub-committee on tariff commission and tariff legislation of Robson, McKinley, Hubbell, Tucker and Morrison.

Blackburn vs. Burbridge.

The following letter and card has been furnished for publication:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9, 1882.

Gen. I. G. Burbridge—Sir: Your letter dated Jan. 6th was handed me last night, and I suppose, with accompanying documents given to the public in this morning's prints. I presume it was intended for the public, as its repetition and my own must be simultaneous. Sir, if it be only with the personal phase of the issue so far as it regards myself that is, and as you have abandoned that, I feel no longer any interest in your communications. As to your insinuations in regard to yellow fever, which you so gratuitously throw in for the attention from what has been said of yourself, all I have to say is that with the proofs of which you profess knowledge, of which I am ignorant and which you regard as simple, if your conduct ever subjects you to a criminal charge and become responsible therefor, there will then be ample time left me to give it consideration.

J. C. S. BLACKBURN.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The correspondence between Gen. Stephen G. Burbridge, formerly of Kentucky, and now a citizen of Pennsylvania, and myself, begun by him, has through his instrumentality been obtruded upon the public attention. I regret this, but not because I have anything to fear from the judgment of the public on the questions involved, nor from the good men of the Union army who respected the law of honorable warfare. I have no feelings but respect and appreciation for their manhood. Gen. Burbridge is outside of this pale by reason of atrocities well known to the people of Kentucky, which have justly made him an outcast from that position where honorable men have buried in an honorable reconciliation the animosities of that unhappy period. I share the detestation of Gen. Burbridge and his conduct which is entertained by confederates and Union men in the state of Kentucky, and this feeling I have expressed on proper occasions. The fact was made known to him. When he interrogated me as to my utterances respecting him, I refused to modify my language or accept his statement at self-vindication. I gave frankly this answer. His response is not an appeal to the usages by which gentlemen have been governed, but an attempt to retort by insult. If this course is satisfactory to Gen. Burbridge or his friends, I cannot complain. I shall continue the discharge of any honors he may have acquired by his efforts to rehabilitate a reputation which, resting as it does, upon the known facts of a shameful personal history, cannot be made worse by anything I can say against him, or improved by his own assertions of innocence and certificates of character. These are not required by gentlemen who have practiced decent respect for the opinions of mankind. [Signed.]

J. C. S. BLACKBURN.

The letter from Blackburn to Burbridge was returned to the writer as unworthy of notice.

On it was written, "For my courage I refer him to the history of the country, which is silent on his achievements; for ample proofs of attempts to introduce clothing infected with yellow fever virus into northern cities, I refer him to the correspondence relating thereto now on file in the state department.

S. G. BURBRIDGE.

Upon receipt of his own letter thus endorsed, Representative Blackburn wrote the above letter to the public.

Pacific Coast Bills.

Senator Farley to-day introduced a bill which was referred to the last congress, authorizing claimants to the rancho Entro de Napa, in Napa county, to present their title to the courts for adjudication.

Senator Slater introduced a bill to authorize the construction of a railroad across the Willamette at Portland, in accordance with the provisions of the act of the Oregon legislature of 1878.

Senator Miller of New York, introduced a bill providing for appointment of official stenographers for federal courts in all territories.

Representative George has introduced a bill providing that all lands hereafter granted to aid in the construction of railroads, which shall not be taken up by building of the roads before the first day of January, 1885, shall be declared forfeited and open for settlement. This as Oregon affects the Northern Pacific, the Oregon and California and Oregon Central to Astoria. The bill also contains several important clauses protecting the rights of settlers in cases of forfeiture by railroad companies, and inuring to these settlers good titles under United States land laws. George also introduced the following bills: To create a commission to report any and all losses by reason of Indian depredations, a bill for relief of citizens of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana who were connected with the war between the federal government and the Nez Perce Indians, which provides payment for their services and for arms or horses lost, and extends the benefit of the pension laws to them and their heirs; a bill to open Umatilla reservation for settlement, identical with Senator Slater's measure, appropriates $8500, to improve the Columbia river between Vancouver barracks to Portland, as recommended by Gen. Miles; and $180,000 for the erection of a custom house and appraiser's building or bonded warehouse at Portland; to create a new customs district of Yamhill with Newport as the port of entry, and a bill to protect settlers on public lands, which provides that a former's failure to perfect title shall not forfeit the right of any one to take up the full amount of land allowed in the first instance under homestead or pre-emption.

The Northern Pacific Land Grant.

The Northern Pacific people here say in reference to the bills introduced in congress affecting the land grant, that the same tactics were resorted to at the last session of congress, and they expect them repeated for two years to come. The feeling on the part of the officers of the road is that congress cannot possibly be brought to wrong the 800 stockholders, who have put four million dollars into the enterprise on their faith in the government's promise, by taking from them land irrevocably granted but not yet technically earned, through which they are constructing the road with the aid of 7000 men, and doing all in their power to finish it by September 1, 1883. Ex-secretary Schurz says if he was in error in his decision concerning the land grants, the error was supported by the opinion of the attorney general, who was consulted before the decision was made by Congress, which during two sessions permitted the decision to stand and be acted on by a majority of the house committee on Pacific railroads, and which reported concurrence in it by the department of justice, which recently gave an opinion affirming it, and by President Arthur, who ordered it to be further acted upon.

The Sherman Investigation a Farce.

Secretary Sherman to-day before the contingent fund committee denied any knowledge of irregularities in the treasury. He had too many weighty matters to look after details. He had paid for all work done on his place by treasury employees. Pitney says the developments are of a very small grade. Sherman only employed treasury men because he could get them cheaper.

Chinese Immigration Legislation.

The procurement of legislation to restrict Chinese immigration has been materially aided yesterday and to-day by the reference of the various bills on that subject, both in the senate and in the house of representatives to sub-committees so constituted as to insure for it early, intelligent and undoubted favorable consideration at the hands of the full committees. The sub-committee headed by Miller of California, includes two other senators who are known to sympathize with the Pacific coast sentiment on this question, namely, Pendleton of Ohio, and Hill of Georgia, and although Edmonds, the one remaining member, is expected to oppose favorable action, it will be of great advantage to friends of the forthcoming bill to develop in advance the grounds of his opposition. It was for this reason Miller requested Chairman Windom to name Edmonds as one of the sub-committee. The house sub-committee is also admirably constituted, for it is sub-committee of Page of California, who will of course consists of Page of California, who will of course spare no effort to obtain prompt and favorable reports; Willis of Kentucky, the democratic representative of Louisville district, who reported and championed the vetoed fifteen-passenger bill in the forty-fifth congress, and Carpenter of Iowa, who fairly represents the indifferent or possibly unfriendly class of members who need enlightenment, and whose views may be advantageously developed through him.

A Profitless Attempt.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Thos. J. Majors, of Nebraska, is here for the purpose of claiming his right to a seat in the house of representatives from that state. Last fall he was elected as contingent member from Nebraska, the population of the state having increased to figures to entitle it to two members. This was the second time Majors had been elected, but two years ago he had to appeal to a democratic house and was refused admission. Now the house is republican and he believes he can get his seat. He contends it is injustice to keep that portion of Nebraska's population which is practically without a representative in the house unrepresented until after the passage of an apportionment act. He is backed by the Nebraska delegation.

A Defense of Sargent.

The Commercial Advertiser's Washington correspondent says: The injustice of the attacks upon Sargent on account of his alleged authorship of the desert land bill having been exposed, and the falsity of the charges clearly established, his enemies have now turned their assaults in another direction. He is now being assailed as holding views in regard to Mormonism contrary to vigorous opposition to polygamy! Reference to his speeches in the house and senate show that there is as little truth in the story of being hostile to the suppression of Mormonism as there was in his being the author and active supporter of the desert land bill.

An Excellent Remedy.

Tribune's Washington special: I do not believe there are three men on the floor of this house, said Congressman Singleton recently, friendly to the Mormons. It is a unanimous sentiment that the curse of polygamy should be abated. How to do away with the evil is the question. In my opinion a sure cure would be the enactment of a law to compel each polygamous Mormon to keep all his wives under the same roof. Inside of six months he would be converted into an enthusiastic monogamist. Gen. Singleton, by the way, commanded the troops that drove the Mormons out of Illinois.

A Prospective Appointee.

Dr. R. G. Dayringforth, of Illinois, examiner-in-chief of the patent office, is mentioned as likely to be appointed commissioner of patents. He has the support of Senators Logan, Jones and Hill of Colorado.

A committee was appointed on the inter-oceanic canal and foreign and inland transportation, to which shall be referred all measures relative to these subjects.

On motion of Upson of Texas, a resolution was adopted, calling on the secretary of war for all correspondence, endorsements and recommendations in his office relating to expenditures or appropriations for appropriate sites and erection of posts for protection of the Rio Grande frontier.

Brown introduced a bill for the issue and exchange of fractional treasury notes; referred.

The house then went into committee of the whole, Calkins in the chair, on the appropriation bill General debate having ended, the bill was read for amendment.

Holmes moved to amend by adding to the bill the following: "That this act shall not be construed as giving the sanction of congress to any contract or engagement entered into by an officer of the government for public service beyond the limit of appropriation previously made by which liability, either legal or equitable, shall be created against the United States;" rejected—75 to 104—the democrats voting in the affirmative and the republicans in the negative. The committee finally rose and reported the census appropriation bill, when it passed without division. It appropriates $540,000.

Browne offered a resolution calling on the secretary of the interior for information of all pensions arising from the war of the rebellion which shall be adjudicated within seven years, terminating June 1, 1888, and if at the end of that period the survivors of the war with Mexico and their widows shall be pensioned at the rate of $8 per month, what appropriations will be required annually to pay pensions during the next 25 years; referred.

Bakar laid before the house a letter from the secretary of the treasury showing a deficiency in the census appropriation amounting to $6000; referred.

The house then adjourned till Monday.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

Davidge Commences his Argument to the Jury.

HE KEENLY DISSECTS THE TESTIMONY OF DEFENSE.

And Displeases Guiteau Thereby, who Interjects a Fusillade of Remarks Throughout the Entire Speech.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—As soon as court was called to order, Davidge took a position in front of the jury and opened his argument by disclaiming any intention to make a set speech, but expressed the simple desire to render the jury what aid he could in their present and solemn duty. The time had now come in this trial when the jury were to become factors. Whatever disorder or levity might have characterized the trial, there was but one sentiment in respect to the conduct of the jury. All commended their dignified department and close and patient attention to the evidence, and he could not doubt that as they had received the commendation of all in the past they would continue to deserve it in the future by their decision of the question before them.

"In the beginning," said Davidge, "it was sought to show the prisoner was off his balance. Now the court tells us to look for that degree of insanity that disabled a man from knowing that what he was doing was wrong. This is the test you are to apply. Upon the question of inspiration, I think I will be able to show to your satisfaction in w little there is in this claim."

The only question, he said, was that of insanity. He then argued the prisoner had that intelligence, legal knowledge and moral sense which rendered him responsible for his acts. In a telling passage he showed that prisoner himself had the wit to see the fatal weakness of Scoville's line of defense and repudiate it, arguing in his own behalf that he was no imbecile, but a sane man, whose intellect and will had been dominated during a specified period of time, rendering him irresponsible for this particular crime. He then reviewed the circumstances of the crime and the victim and criminal. His analysis of Guiteau's character was graphic and effective. "If," he exclaimed, "I were to sum up the moral and intellectual qualities of this man, I should say that he had the daring of a vulture combined with the heart of a wolf." In speaking of Guiteau's plea, he remarked upon his greater fear of a lesser punishment than of law, and concluded, "We must say to our shame that this estimate had foundation. It rested," he added, "with the jury, to show the world whether Guiteau's opinion was well founded."

As Davidge traced the process of reasoning by which the prisoner gradually reached the conviction that but one life interposed between himself and posterity's great benefits, Guiteau became restless and for the first time since the opening of the case showed indicated by a nervous twisting about of the mouth, the usual preliminaries to interruption, which in this instance quickly followed. "No," said Davidge, "in the record of heinous crimes few cases equal such plain and pointed evidence as to the first conception of a crime as in this case. The suggestion came to the wretch in the night, as he was lying in bed."

"It came to me when the Lord got ready to have it," shouted the prisoner.

Davidge continued, "this thought or suggestion came to him the 20th of May. Still thinking he might obtain office, he sought and kept his hands clean. His made another effort on the 2nd of May to induce the president.

Guiteau called out from the dock, "I would not have taken a foreign mission after the 1st of June, is it had been offered to me."

Davidge—apparently not heeding him—"On the 20th of May—"

Guiteau—"I am talking about the 1st of June."

Davidge—pausing a moment—"Just listen to him."

Guiteau—sneeringly—"They will listen to you, but your talk is so weak it is hardly worth listening to."

For several minutes Guiteau continued to interject his comments with the evident intention of annoying Davidge, but finding he could not effect this, he gradually subsided into complete silence.

Davidge continued: There is not a single fact or single jot or tittle to show that the prisoner was not perfectly responsible for his act on the 2d of July. The jury will find defense have carefully picked out and held up to view everything in the life and career of this man which may be considered odd or peculiar, and it is for you to consider how much value can be attached to this evidence when you come to consider whether this man did not know right and wrong. Logan and the woman and child. An Unexpected Snow Storm.

SAN BUENAVENTURA, Jan. 12.—Old residents were astonished this morning by a fall of snow which whitened the hills close to town. One gentleman who has resided here 31 years never saw such a thing before.

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1. That Catarrhal Co ds become a poisonous infection, at first local, and finally constitutional.

2. That, sein Constitutions, the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3. That impurities in the nostrils, are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.

4. That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bronchitis, Leucorrhœa, and Consumption!

5. That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations, and Insoluble Snuffs, cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6. That an anticoto for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for, and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

GENERAL NEWS.

Complete List of Failures for the New Year.

ANOTHER ESCAPE OF A TEXAS PACIFIC PAYMASTER.

Northern Pacific Building Three Miles a Day Towards New Orleans—Railroad and Stock Notes.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

TACOMA, Jan. 13.—A libel suit which created interest has terminated to-day. Ten years ago Martha Whitley, disappeared. Three years after the body was found in the river sewn up in a sack with hands and feet tied, having evidently been thrown in the river. The girl was a servant and had been intimate with a young man named Peeble, who subsequently married another girl. Martha had lived at Peeble's house in dishonor and Peeble gave her a note of four hundred dollars to show appreciative grit. On the day of her disappearance the girl said she was going to collect the note. The body when found disclosed the fact that a girl had been a mother. Two newspapers of Olympia afterward published these facts and details which began the police throwing suspicion on Peeble, but not making a direct charge. Besides these papers for $50,000 each. The evidence only justified the papers and a verdict was returned, "no cause for action."

Failures of the Week.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—R. G. Dun & Co. report failures throughout the country the past seven days as follows: The largest number of any week for more than two years. The reason for such increase is the large number of persons insolvent to the end of 1881, who for various reasons could not be sold over till after New Year's. This is particularly the case in the southern states. The failures foot up 74. Failures in the United States, 44; in the middle, 40; eastern, 22; southern, 7, and New York city, 15.

Probable Murder.

OLYMPIA, Jan. 13.—The house of a negro named Cain was discovered in flames yesterday, and a bed in the house with her throat cut near the body of Mrs. Garret, a white woman kept house for White, was found. It is said a woman had been murdered.

Excitement in Red the Deadlock.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Democrats of both houses will caucus this evening. It is expected that all members will be present. Prominent democrats suggested this course to put an end to the deadlock.

Gowan Elected.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—There was some excitement when it was found that Vanderbilt had voted for Gowan. The vote stands, Gowan 111, Hoag 111.

Hung.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Thadeus Baber and Wm. Warren were executed in the jail yard this morning. Baber made confession. Both died easy.

Railroad Notes.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Jay Gould and party returned from special train to-night.

Rates of 17 cents on provisions to Baltimore established over the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Vanderbilt roads.

A meeting of Colorado roads the southern roads to divide their business, owing to non-representativity of the St. Louis Texas road. The meeting agreed to a division and the meeting agreed to make rates to-morrow. Marion Hertzwestern, were chosen chairman, secretary, commissioner. The executive committee was rehabilitated to-day and Wabash membership and proceedings of other lines. George H. Daniels was commissioner.

Railroad Construction.

The Pacific railroad has been advancing 3 miles a day at the rate of three miles per day for the last 106 miles east of El Paso. This has largely augmented since connection with the Texas Pacific, and connects from the southern states is noticeable. The road will be completed to El Paso August 1. No grades of any consequence to be encountered on the remainder of the line.

The Central are out thirty miles from El Paso, and are shipping English steel from there. The Southern Pacific to El Paso, moving rapidly and rumors of small much exaggerated.

Bonds and Stocks and Bonds.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The proposition for consolidation of the Wabash line was made Wednesday, but by the contracting parties with favor. While negotiations may fail through, a speedy adjustment are good, and it is in the hands appeared in the Western that the purchase of five thousand morning was said to be for him. The that stock put out more shares yesterday. The little disturbed last evening by the that had been consulted by the short was prepared to squeeze it. The North- makes a profit of five hundred thousandage of bonds which it lately negotiated.

A Narrow Escape.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 12.—Dissatisfaction among the Texas Pacific railway, at a recent meeting Hoxie, reducing their wages to was culminated. At this place, 500 miles from Dallas, the pay car being mistaken for the car, was side tracked by a large force of men, determined to lynch Hoxie. When the car for the purpose of paying it was with great difficulty that the paymaster, convinced the rob that the people. The paymaster, after being detained, has been allowed to leave town.

The Agreement Made.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—The Post says it has been the New York Central and Erie shall to- arbitrator and the Pennsylvania and Ohio and another, and these two shall have related, and these three shall have re- all questions about the trunk line differential rates. This is not official a reliable source.

The speaker constitute the committee shall constitute the permanent committee of congress, which, when appointed by the house shall stand.

Brown's bill to give each senator a clerk at $65,000 out of the treasury yearly.

Ben Hill, Garland's counsel, says the Gulteau case is safe, and there will not be another trial. Garland will be a raving maniac before it can be reached.

The house has approved the joint resolution of thanks of the people of the United States to the khedive of Egypt for the gift of the obelisk.

The committee on ways and means called on the president to-day in a body to pay their respects and confer with him in regard to those portions of the president's message before the committee.

The territorial committee has decided to report back to the senate Vest's bill to provide for the marriages in territories, requesting that it be referred to the judiciary committee.

Indian Legislation Wanted.

The senate committee on Indian affairs held a meeting to-day to give the committee of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church a hearing on the subject of Indian legislation. Judge Strong, of the supreme court, read a carefully prepared paper to be presented to congress urging legislation looking to the establishment of Indians on lands of their own, education of their children and their gradual adoption into civilized life. A short address was made by Rev. Mr. Riggs, for the past 15 years missionary among the Sioux, Dr. Hall, Gen. Armstrong and Capt. Pratt, of Hampton and Carlisle schools. All urged the importance and necessity of special attention on the part of congress to the question of civilizing Indians.

Nominations Confirmed.

The senate confirmed J. H. Flemming of St. Louis as agent for the Moquis Pueblo agency of Arizona.

Territorial Sub-Committees.

The senate committee on territories to-day assigned the business before them for consideration by the committees as follows: The Oklahoma bill, the bill providing for creating United States courts in the territorys and all other matters concerning the territory, were referred for preliminary examination to Senators McDill and Vest; all matters relating to Alaska to Senators Butler, Kellogg and Hill, and the bill for the admission of Dakota and others relating to that territory placed in charge of Senator Saunders, with the suggestion that he confer with delegate Pettigrew, and invite him to be present at the next meeting.

San Francisco's Desires.

Mayor Miller has procured an order from the board of supervisors directing the printing the memorial of the San Francisco board of commerce with all its accompanying documents, setting forth the defenceless condition of San Francisco city and harbor, and has had the matter referred to the committee on military affairs. He says he will follow up the matter with the committee and in due course will urge it upon the attention of the committee on appropriations.

Governor Frederick F. Low and family have arrived at Washington on a short visit.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.

At 1:15 Sherman's funding bill was taken up and Williams, Portland, Jan. 12.—Democrats of both houses will caucus this evening. It is expected that all members will be present. Prominent democrats suggested this course to put an end to the deadlock.

Garland argued to show the relation of banks to the government. He said it was fair to argue that the government was legally bound to receive the notes of banks in payment of taxes, because of its consequence of funding. He was not wedded to the idea of three per cent. bonds, but was willing to take the necessary steps for securing one million dollars annually for what it is worth.

Vest, replying to Sherman, asserted that between 1863 and 1873 silver dollars were coined to the amount of six million dollars, to disprove the assertion of Sherman he stated that they had not been coined for many years prior to the demonetizing act of 1873.

This point gave rise to a controversy between the two senators, during which Vest substantiated his assertion by quotations from official records and Sherman conceded the fact as to coining silver dollars in the period named, but insisted that it had been entirely for export. The statement which Vest made had no warrant of law to support it. Debate was continued by Allison, Sherman and Plumb.

The fact became apparent at 4:20 that no several senators desiring to speak had not yet participated in the discussion, the bill was informally laid aside until Monday.

The following bills were introduced:

By Edmonds, in relation to a quorum of the supreme court of the United States, providing that hereafter a majority of the justices instead of six, shall constitute a quorum.

On motion of Teller, his resolution directing the secretary of the interior to communicate the decision of the commissioner general of the land office declaring the land grant made to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company lapsed under operation of the law granting the same, and also the decision, order or instructions of his predecessor, Carl Schurz, overruling the commissioner's decision and restoring the grant of lands to the Northern Pacific railroad without reference of the subject to congress. Further, all memoranda on the subject and number of acres for which patents had been issued to said company or its assignees since July 4, 1877, was taken up.

Allison moved an amendment to include in the call for information any opinion of the attorney general on the subject; agreed to and resolution passed.

Windom offered a resolution requesting the president of the United States to communicate as far as may be compatible with the public interests copies of instructions to the minister of the United States in Hayti of his notes to that government, and of his dispatches to the department of state not heretofore communicated respecting the claim of Antonio Pelletier, a citizen of the United States, against the government of Hayti—adopted.

Brown offered a declatory resolution, that it is inexpedient and unwise to contract the currency by withdrawal from circulation of what is known as silver coin, based upon proper rates of paper predicated upon and convertible.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Mining Items.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13.—Exchequer levies an assessment of 25 cents. Tioga levies an assessment of 10 cents.

At a meeting of stockholders of the Con Va Mining Co., held yesterday, 479,677 shares were represented. The old board of directors were re-elected. A. W. Havens elected secretary, W. H. Patton, superintendent, and the Nevada bank treasurer. There is an overdraft of $307,336.

Cold Weather in California.

AUBURN, Cal., Jan. 13.—Since Wednesday the thermometer has stood ten degrees below, and the strongest northeast gales ever experienced have prevailed. Reservoirs are frozen sufficient to permit skating, and all mining ditches frozen full, rendering them temporarily useless. Many ditches have also suffered damage and Towle's railroad is blocked by fallen trees, one of which fell on a Chinaman in their employ, probably causing fatal injuries. No harm to fruit growth is apprehended.

Fatal Upset.

MARTINEZ, Jan. 12.—Cretas Sister was thrown from a buggy yesterday and died of his injuries.

Snow and Orange Blossoms.

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 13.—It commenced snowing at 8 o'clock. Four and half inches have fallen and it is still snowing. There is good sleighing among orange groves.

The Storm still Raging.

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 13.—The gale still continues. Last night in Ojal valley, fourteen miles northeast of this town, it assumed the proportions of a tornado, destroying houses and fences and uprooting oak trees which had withstood the storms of two centuries. No harm to grain or fruit, but death on lambs and sheep.

Wreck of the Bark Annie.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—In the storm Thursday, the bark Annie, Capt. Sandbourg, from Port Blakely, during the height of the gale, parted her cable and began drifting shoreward. The captain endeavored to put to sea, but was unable to do so and the Annie struck within about three cables' length of the shore north of the point and now lies a total wreck, going to pieces rapidly. The captain and crew got ashore safely.

Wrecked in a Sand Storm.

The express from the east via the southern route, due here at 1:45 this morning, will not arrive until to-morrow morning. The detention was caused by the wrecking of a freight train on the desert fifty miles west of Yuma. No particulars. The express will await the arrival of the detained train.

ARIZONA.

Rich Mining Strikes.

WILCOX, Ariz., Jan. 13.—Rich mining discoveries have been made 7 miles southwest of this place. The ledge runs nearly east and west and is reported to be 8½ feet wide. Specimens of ore in Norton, Stewart & Co.'s office from the ledge assay $60 to $12,000 per ton. Prospectors are daily arriving at the new district in large numbers. The district has been named Cochise, and is about one mile from Steele's ranch, at a point near the mountains. Excitement has reached Tombstone and Dos Cabez, and large numbers are coming in from those districts.

Snow in Arizona.

TUCSON, Jan. 13.—A heavy snow fell on the desert west of Tucson last night. A snow storm is now raging in the mountains surrounding Tucson and it is raining in the valley.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

A Chapter of Accidents.

WALLA WALLA, Jan. 13.—Thursday, at South Walla Walla, a scaffold 14 feet high, used in building the O. R. & N. Co.'s round house, gave way, and J. H. Miller, boss carpenter, had is right wrist badly dislocated and was injured otherwise by the fall, and J. S. McMenzie, carpenter, was badly hurt in the small of the back and loins. The same day a ship carpenter, name not learned, cut his leg nearly off with an adze and another man was knocked in the breast with a log and possibly fatally injured.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Pendleton's New Bank.

PENDLETON, Jan. 13.—The First National Bank of Pendleton was incorporated here to-day. Levi Anderson of Walla Walla is president, and W. S. Byers, R. G. Thompson, Levi Ankeny and Jacob Frazier directors.

CANADA.

Canada Pacific Matters.

MONTREAL, Jan. 12.—The Canada Pacific railway directors have resolved not to build a contemplated branch to Sault Ste Marie, but the connection will be made with the Chicago & Northwestern instead. It is stated that they had not been contracted for many years prior to the demonetizing act of 1873.

This point gave rise to a controversy between the two senators, during which Vest substantiated his assertion by quotations from official records and Sherman conceded the fact as to coining silver dollars in the period named, but insisted that it had been entirely for export. The statement which Vest made had no warrant of law to support it. Debate was continued by Allison, Sherman and Plumb.

The fact became apparent at 4:20 that no several senators desiring to speak had not yet participated in the discussion, the bill was informally laid aside until Monday.

The following bills were introduced:

Brown offered a declatory resolution, that it is inexpedient and unwise to contract the currency by withdrawal from circulation of what is known as silver coin, based upon proper rates of paper predicated upon and convertible.

Mail Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Upon opening court Guiteau said: "In justice to myself and Davidge, I desire to say I received a letter yesterday severely denouncing Davidge, and my remarks against him were hasty and unjust. I have found out, however, that I was mistaken, and that Davidge is a high-toned, Christian gentlemen, and sound lawyer. I desire, therefore, to withdraw anything I said against him. I still entertain the same opinion of the government bed in case of a failure of contractor. In fact, the sureties were liable to costs to the full amount of their possessions.

Col. Bliss replied at some length on this point. At the close of his argument counsel for Cabell, surrendered by bondsmen last night, asked to have his bail reduced, and Judge Snell fixed it at $2,000 each, which was promptly demanded. Pending adjournment, Col. Bliss said he desired to make a personal statement both for his own vindication and that of Judge Snell. They had been charged with having used some strong language in alluding to Geddings, Clerk Beck, when in fact he had left warrants at police headquarters at 2:45, P. M., with instructions to serve them as soon as possible, so defendants might secure bail before night. Adjourned.

Special Attorney Bliss then argued Col. Bliss to-day in prosecution of star route cases. Mrs. Cabell, wife of the principal defendant, was in court, because, as Col. Bliss explained she was one of the subscribing witnesses to some of the worthless bonds. In answer to Col. Bliss Judge Snell said Jackson, one of the defendants, had not yet been arrested. Bliss then opened the day's proceedings with a protest against the reception of evidence presented so far by the government. He was followed by Col. Patton who elaborated the point made yesterday by Wilson, that a contractor could find separate sureties on each and every bond required of him, and such is not the meaning of law. He argued that the government had no far fetched entirely to establish the existence of a conspiracy and therefore the evidence was not pertinent and should be thrown out. He quoted the act of 1874, which authorizes the postermaster-general to call for new sureties on a bond if he believed those given to be insufficient, and ask why this course had not been pursued by every government. As B. Williams made the point that an endorsement of sureties by postmasters was final, and they could not go back of this endorsement, and the law provided for the punishment of a postmaster who should knowingly endorse an insufficient surety therefor. He claimed the court had no discretion in this case, but must discharge the defendants. Cook of the prosecution quoted the laws bearing upon the conspiracies, and said these cases fell within their meaning. Court thought the bids and bonds submitted were admissable because they bore in a manner upon the case, and they were placed in evidence. Examination of witnesses was resumed, and Gorham and Webster, notaries public of Washington, identified bids and contracts shown by prosecution. About a dozen of the papers, numbering in all 3,00, were thus disposed of. Cross-examination of witnesses being deferred until the informal offer of papers in evidence, Williams asked whether the bail of W. W. Jackson ($3000) and of K. Armstrong ($5000) could not be reduced to a reasonable figure as was done in Cabell's case. Judge Snell declined to act upon the latter parties. Court then adjourne1.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

Davidge Concludes his Argument to the Jury.

READ WILL OPEN FOR THE DEFENSE TO-DAY.

Scenes in the Court Room during Davidge's Speech—Guiteau's Pleasantries and their Reception—Visitors at the Trial.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.

Upon reassembling of the court, Davidge continued in order each member of the Guiteau family whose mental condition was bad. Unanswerable expert testimony, he said, showed how much effect this collateral insanity would have on the mental condition of the prisoner. "It is a hollow mockery to discuss this."

Guiteau shouted, "I have always been a christian man and for six years have been strictly virtuous. I don't regard this as fair."

Davidge continued to discuss the evidence which he had arranged chronologically. He caused a ripple of amusement as he described Guiteau's career in Boston. There is in Boston a temple or building erected by the disciples or believers in the doctrines of Paine. Davidge said the peculiar conduct attributed to Guiteau when he lectured there was the fact that his company were out of accord with him, and their ridicule angered and disgusted him; but he (Davidge) ridiculed the idea that anything had been shown by this evidence to indicate insanity. Counsel diverted with startling perspicacity the testimony of one witness after another and pointed out the weakness and unreliability of those opinions of witnesses for defense which have been based in many instances upon the most meagre acquaintances. Alluding to one witness Daniels, of Virginia who had neither been asked nor had expressed an opinion as to the prisoner's sanity, Davidge said, "In my opinion, he was therefore the best witness, for I have infinitely more respect for a man who does not express an opinion than for those who do, or are so ready to express one with no data upon which to base it."

"I've just got my speech out," called out Guiteau, "but I'm afraid it will be a month before I get a chance to deliver it, judging by the way Davidge is closing his."

The hour of 3 o'clock having arrived, Judge Porter suggested adjournment, which was agreed to by counsel for defense. An exciting discussion then ensued upon Judge Cox inquiring if counsel wished to say anything upon Guiteau's request to be heard.

"I want," shouted Guiteau, "to make the closing speech. I would not trust the closing of my case to the best lawyer in America."

The district attorney, in a ringing speech, protested against Guiteau's being again allowed to take a seat at the counsel table.

Applause from the audience, with shouts from Guiteau, and cries of "order" from the bailiff, made an exciting scene for some minutes. Guiteau was finally heard shouting through the din. "The American people will read my speech, and they are greater than this court. The American people are saying this case, and if you undertake to put on gag law, the country has well nigh come to an end. My speech will make eight columns, and it reads like an oration of Cicero. It will go thundering down the ages, and don't you forget it; and as for Corkhill, I mention his name with contempt of you."

Mrs. Scoville was deeply affected and wept hysterically. Judge Cox finally told Scoville to read over the prisoner's speech and let the court know in a few moments if there was anything he desired to say before the jury, and without stating whether he would permit prisoner to speak or not, Judge Cox ordered court adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Upon opening court Guiteau said: "In justice to myself and Davidge, I desire to say I received a letter yesterday severely denouncing Davidge, and my remarks against him were hasty and unjust. I have found out, however, that I was mistaken, and that Davidge is a high-toned, Christian gentlemen, and sound lawyer. I desire, therefore, to withdraw anything I said against him. I still entertain the same opinion of the government bed in case of a failure of contractor. In fact, the sureties were liable to costs to the full amount of their possessions.

Col. Bliss replied at some length on this point. At the close of his argument counsel for Cabell, surrendered by bondsmen last night, asked to have his bail reduced, and Judge Snell fixed it at $2,000 each, which was promptly demanded. Pending adjournment, Col. Bliss said he desired to make a personal statement both for his own vindication and that of Judge Snell. They had been charged with having used some strong language in alluding to Geddings, Clerk Beck, when in fact he had left warrants at police headquarters at 2:45, P. M., with instructions to serve them as soon as possible, so defendants might secure bail before night. Adjourned.

Special Attorney Bliss then argued Col. Bliss to-day in prosecution of star route cases. Mrs. Cabell, wife of the principal defendant, was in court, because, as Col. Bliss explained she was one of the subscribing witnesses to some of the worthless bonds. In answer to Col. Bliss Judge Snell said Jackson, one of the defendants, had not yet been arrested. Bliss then opened the day's proceedings with a protest against the reception of evidence presented so far by the government. He was followed by Col. Patton who elaborated the point made yesterday by Wilson, that a contractor could find separate sureties on each and every bond required of him, and such is not the meaning of law. He argued that the government had no far fetched entirely to establish the existence of a conspiracy and therefore the evidence was not pertinent and should be thrown out. He quoted the act of 1874, which authorizes the postermaster-general to call for new sureties on a bond if he believed those given to be insufficient, and ask why this course had not been pursued by every government. As B. Williams made the point that an endorsement of sureties by postmasters was final, and they could not go back of this endorsement, and the law provided for the punishment of a postmaster who should knowingly endorse an insufficient surety therefor. He claimed the court had no discretion in this case, but must discharge the defendants. Cook of the prosecution quoted the laws bearing upon the conspiracies, and said these cases fell within their meaning. Court thought the bids and bonds submitted were admissable because they bore in a manner upon the case, and they were placed in evidence. Examination of witnesses was resumed, and Gorham and Webster, notaries public of Washington, identified bids and contracts shown by prosecution. About a dozen of the papers, numbering in all 3,00, were thus disposed of. Cross-examination of witnesses being deferred until the informal offer of papers in evidence, Williams asked whether the bail of W. W. Jackson ($3000) and of K. Armstrong ($5000) could not be reduced to a reasonable figure as was done in Cabell's case. Judge Snell declined to act upon the latter parties. Court then adjourne1.

STAR ROUTE SUITS.

Examination of Witnesses Commenced in the First Case in Circuit Court.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—In the star route case in police court to-day Bliss proposed in his cross-examination of witnesses to establish the existence of a conspiracy. Counsel agreed to let the state's case stand adjourned to enable the prosecution to put in more proof in support of a failure to show the existence of such a conspiracy. Special counsel would be present before this court. The proposition caused some discussion by counsel and court made a decision keeping the case in court. Counsel were under the law, and said he had not fully decided whether or not these cases fell within the scope of the statutes which form the basis of these cases. Without such proof Bliss argued at the first witness, C. J. Walker, sutler public, was called.

Witness identified certain papers presented by prosecution as bids and contracts which he had witnessed for Cabell. Along recess between counsel ensued over the admission of these papers, but they were finally put in evidence, court reserving its decision with regard to the legal results of the matter. These papers were bids and contracts on three of Cabell's routes and much time was consumed in tedious examination of witnesses to prove the validity of the papers and all except signatures of three reception and a writ issued on them, were gone over. Col. Bliss explained that defense forced him to pursue this course by insisting upon technicalities in the case. Webster testified to being present at Cabell's house and signing and sealing 3 large number of these papers. When questioned as to the persons present when he did this work, the memory of witness failed him and counsel for defense charged him with seeking to prompt witness. Col. Bliss repelled the charge and said indignantly, "I am not used to being accused of subterfuge and wrong practices, and I will not submit to these charges from any gentleman." Quite a little tilt among counsel followed the remark, witness finally being turned over to defense for cross-examination. Webster said he had left his official seal at Cabell's house for a night, and had never placed his seal to a paper until it was completed. He had authorized Cabell to attach the seal to a paper which he, Webster, had witnessed, and although he had signed such in their names, the bids were too numerous for him to be able to swear that he he said they had sworn to their signatures before he approved them. The papers were all signed when he was called in, as he might have been imposed upon by parties representing themselves as signers.

Geo. J. Brewer, clerk in the contract office of the postoffice department, testified as to the methods of receiving bids and awarding contracts in the postoffice department. He did not know an instance where the postmaster general had investigated the security offered by a surety or bidder. The department relied upon the postmasters' endorsements of the parties. Col. Bliss here again explained the department had no discretion in the matter. They were compelled to accept the endorsement of its post masters. Col. Bliss in putting in papers in evidence called the attention of court to the fact that names of the parties, contractors and others in the bids were printed, and only the final signatures written. This fact he said would tend to show the way these bids were ground out. The bonds were also worthless, and Mintzk & Dixon had sworn in them that 575 acres of land in Morgan county, Ky., owned by them, was worth $50,000, whereas Cabell, the original owner, acknowledged having got the land for 50 cents per acre. Wilson followed by reading the affidavits on which the case is based and claimed if all of the acts charged in them were true there was no conspiracy. Conspiracy meant intention to injure some one. His efforts had performed their duties faithfully. It was necessary, he said, for some one to perform this service, and no man could find a separate bond for every bid if he went into business to get rich. No one could deny W. W. Corcoran's right to go on a thousand bonds. Should they deny his clients the same right to due proportion. It was wrong, also, to assume this property spoken of by Corcoran was the only protection the government had in case of a failure of contractor. In fact, the sureties were liable to costs to the full amount of their possessions.

Col. Bliss replied at some length on this point. At the close of his argument counsel for Cabell, surrendered by bondsmen last night, asked to have his bail reduced, and Judge Snell fixed it at $2,000 each, which was promptly demanded. Pending adjournment, Col. Bliss said he desired to make a personal statement both for his own vindication and that of Judge Snell. They had been charged with having used some strong language in alluding to Geddings, Clerk Beck, when in fact he had left warrants at police headquarters at 2:45, P. Special Attorney Bliss then argued Col. Bliss to-day in prosecution of star route cases. Mrs. Cabell, wife of the principal defendant, was in court, because, as Col. Bliss explained she was one of the subscribing witnesses to some of the worthless bonds. In answer to Col. Bliss Judge Snell said Jackson, one of the defendants, had not yet been arrested. Bliss then opened the day's proceedings with a protest against the reception of evidence presented so far by the government. He was followed by Col. THE LATEST HORROR.

Terrible Accident on the Hudson River Railroad.

ABOUT FIFTY PERSONS KILLED AND WOUNDED.

Two Palace Cars Telescoped by an Engine following and Destroyed by Fire—Frightful Scenes of Death in the Burning Wreck.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—A train leaving Albany at 2:40 this afternoon with many members of the legislature on board, was run into by the Tarrytown special train about one quarter of a mile east of the Spuyten Duyvil junction, on the Harlem main line. The two rear Wagner cars, it is feared, are burned, and a passenger is probably dead, as he was last seen entering the rear room car at Idlewild a few minutes before the collision.

The following telegram was received at police headquarters at Spuyten Duyvil bridge by Superintendent Walling, about 3:30 P. M.:

The Tarrytown train ran into the rear of the special express at Spuyten Duyvil, destroying two cars by fire, with loss of life. Notify the coroner and send ambulances. PETER YALE, Captain.

Every available ambulance has been sent to the scene of the accident from 10 Revie, 20th street and New York hospitals. It is reported that George F. Spinny, Albany correspondent of the N. Y. Times, was killed. At 11:45 to-night Sergeant Doyle of the Fourth precinct sent a telegram to headquarters that the dead bodies had been recovered and twelve persons are supposed killed. At 12:35 A. M. Captain Yale telegraphed the following particulars to police headquarters: About 7:35 P. M. the special New York Central express on the Hudson River railroad, bound south, became disabled at Spuyten Duyvil and the Tarrytown special, which followed close behind, ran into it and telescoped with the drawing room car of Idlewild and Empire setting fire to and destroying both cars and burning several people. Park Valentine, 21 years old, his wife, 19 years, of Remington, Vt., and a lady supposed to be from Philadelphia, were killed. Their bodies are at Kilkuhlen's hotel. Four bodies burned to a crisp are at this station. Oliver J. Berkeley, 36 years old, of Spring Valley, Pa., is fatally injured. Mary Daniels, residence at Sherry not House, corner Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street, is seriously injured, but will recover. Warden O'Rourke was ordered at 12:30 to send two ambulances with surgeons to the Grand Central depot in this city, where a train with the wounded on board was expected.

The facts of the accident are these: The express from Chicago to New York reached Albany twenty-three minutes late, owing to the great crowd of legislators and others who desired to leave the capital. Fifteen additional cars were put on, eight of them being palace coaches. Two engines were also attached, and the train got under way. It was filled with all the men of note and prominence of both the republican and democratic parties. The Tammany Hall delegation was about the last to arrive at the depot, and as all other cars were filled, they took the rear car Empire. In this car were Police Commissioner Nichols, Edw. Kearney, Senator Browning, Assemblymen Collers, Sheehy, Lobb, Costello, McManus, M. F. Holhahn, and Alderman Levy. There were also in the car Commissioner of Immigration Ulrich, Assemblyman Cipatic, of the board of Brooklyn, Gen. F. Spinny, of Albany, correspondent New York Times, A. W. Lyman, of the Sun, August Abel, Joseph Doyle and two ladies of Albany, names unknown. The train got under way and when East Albert was reached the train was received and the palace car Idlewild, from Troy, was hitched on at the rear of the train. There were some ten passengers on board this car. The run was made safely until Spuyten Duyvil bridge was reached, at 7 o'clock, when a heated axle made necessary a stoppage to give time to cool. Conductor Branford ordered brakeman Bilkens to signal the Tarrytown special which left Troy own at 6:35 P. M., and Spuyten Duyvil station at 7:07. The latter train was in charge of Conductor Evans. Bilkens apparently did not signal properly and the Tarrytown special which ran at the rate of 25 miles per hour struck the rear car of Collins' cut and struck the rear palace car Idlewild, in which were twelve passengers. The engine ran under the platform into the car and drove the Idlewild into the Empire with such force as to render it necessary to cut it out with saw and ax.

The stove and lamps in the parlor cars were upset and ignited the wood work and upholstery. Passengers were jammed between seats and sides of the car and held while the flames rose around and enveloped them. Of 12 passengers in the Idlewild, wild, 9 dead, 1 being taken in the ambulance to 59th street hospital, probably fatally injured. Another lady passenger, Miss Mary Daniels, 25 years old, of Sherwood house, New York, who was returning from a visit to Vermont to Shelby sculled about the arms and breast, and is yet at a hotel near the scene of the accident. Oliver B. Kelly, stove manufacturer of Springshire, Pa., had his right arm burned, also his body. He was taken out of the car by Doctors Dakin and died at midnight at a hotel. Among the passengers were a young couple named Valentine from Bennington, Vt., who were married Thursday evening and were on a wedding tour. They were 19 years of age each, and were accompanied by the groom's father, A. B. Valentine, who escaped uninjured. Both the young couple might have been saved but for the desperate clinging of the young bride to her husband. No other bodies were identified up to 1:30 A. M. It is stated Senator Wagner was seen on a car at Poughkeepsie, and not since. Senator Wagner's son was at the depot this evening looking for his father. J. D. Hanson of the Hoffman house, is also missing. The cars burned brightly until the last vestige of wood was destroyed. The road was blockaded but at one o'clock wrecking trains arrived from New York in charge of Superintendent Toucey and commenced to clear the track. Four bodies were burned beyond recognition and are at King's Bridge police station, one being that of a woman. Five bodies are in the room of the hotel, one of which is supposed to be Mr. Prindle of Philadelphia. As the locomotive dashed into the standing train, Police Commissioner Nichols was lifted out of his seat and hurled over the head of Maurice F. Holhahn, and was badly bruised. Edward Kearney was thrown violently against the side of the car and was injured by concussion and broke a limb.

Commissioner Nichols was not cut painfully. George Thompson of St. Louis, passenger, is all right. Assemblyman Erastus Brooks is unhurt; also Senators Jacobs and John J. Kiernan, each of whom is spoken of for temporary presiding officer of the senate.

Park Valentine and wife, who were killed, were married only on Wednesday last. Valentine is a nephew of Treasurer W. Park and is in business with his father, A. B. Valentine, one of the wealthiest citizens of southern Vermont. His wife was Miss Gaylord, of North Adams, Mass. They were en route to Florida on their bridal tour.

In addition to the killed, said to number eight, forty or more persons were injured. There were at least 500 passengers on the train. The horrors of the collision were increased by the two rear cars taking fire. Some of the occupants were roasted to death in sight of hundreds who were unable to rescue the helpless passengers. Two women were seen clasped in each other's arms and burned between the framework of one of the cars and colliding engine. The flames quickly lapped them in a fiery embrace.

INSURANCE.

EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

120 Broadway, New York.

LIFE INSURANCE PROFITS DEMONSTRATED BY ACTUAL SETTLEMENTS MADE IN 1880.

The Society is now paying maturing Tontine Policies with the following remarkable results:

POLICIES CARRIED TEN YEARS WITH THE RETURN OF ALL PREMIUMS PAID AND INTEREST THEREON.

1st Example: Policy No. 63,843, issued Dec. 30, 1870. Endowment 20 years. Tontine Period ten years. Amount.....$10,000 00
Total premiums paid (10 years).....5,000 00
The assured on Dec. 30, 1880, will be entitled to and was in cash, $9,037 50, 129 per cent of the premiums paid.

These results, although predicted by carefully made estimates, are

NOT ESTIMATES, BUT ACTUAL CASH RETURNS.

2d Example: Policy No. 41,621, issued March 27, 1869. Amount.....$5,000 00
Total premiums paid.....1,968 96
In this case the assured withdrew, March 27, 1880, in cash, $4,312 45, being 111 per cent. of premiums paid.

Many policies will be thus paid in 1881, showing

CASH RETURNS OF FROM 100 TO 120 PER CENT. OF THE PREMIUMS PAID.

Assets securely invested of $43,000,000. Surplus, according to New York standard, $10,000,000. The Society's popularity is shown by the fact that for the past eleven years the total amount of new policies issued has been greater than that of any other company in existence, thus making its average

ANNUAL NEW BUSINESS LARGER THAN THAT OF ANY OTHER COMPANY.

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 14, 1882.

THE TEHUANTEPEC ROUTE.

Years ago the Tehuantepec route was among the number favorably considered for a ship canal between the oceans. In 1850 Mr. Webster, secretary of state, in a letter to our minister in Mexico, said: "The American public at large has a great and obvious interest in the Tehuantepec passage; and in 1852 President Fillmore, in a letter addressed to the president of Mexico, said: 'Your enlarged and enlightened views must enable you fully to appreciate the importance of opening an inter-oceanic communication between the Atlantic and Pacific across the isthmus of Tehuantepec.'"

Attention has of late years been concentrated chiefly on the Panama and Nicaragua routes; while that of Tehuantepec has almost dropped out of sight. An effort is, however, being made to revive it. The persons who have attempted it say that since the Nicaragua Maritime Canal Company has taken shape and is asking congress for a charter and subsidy of three per cent, on bonds amounting to $100,000,000, and since de Lesseps has begun to dig a canal across the isthmus of Panama, it is in order to ask why the old scheme of a canal across the isthmus of Tehuantepec, which was formerly regarded in so favorable a light, should be abandoned. We are told that by improving the navigation of the Coatzacoalcos river for a part of the distance, and using some small lakes, a ship canal could easily be constructed. The total cost has been estimated at $75,000,000, and four years' time. This is much below the estimate of cost and time at either of the other points. A congress of distinguished engineers assembled at Paris in 1878, estimated the cost of the Panama canal at 1,200,000,000 francs, or about $240,000,000, and twenty years' time. The cost of the Nicaragua canal has been placed by competent engineers at $160,000,000, and fifteen years' time.

Then the Tehuantepec would be much shorter, particularly for American commerce. From New York to San Francisco via Tehuantepec the distance is set down as being 1447 miles less than by way of Panama. Again, it is urged that the Tehuantepec route is peculiarly adapted to the use of sailing vessels. Owners of sailing ships are said to look with disfavor on the Panama and Nicaragua schemes, on the ground that the prevailing calms at those points will give steamers such advantage as to keep sail vessels out of the trade. Tehuantepec, on the contrary, lying north of the region of calms, has favoring winds for commerce. An advocate of the Tehuantepec route says: "I venture to affirm that by the time the Panama vessel has cleared the canal and floats in the waters of the Pacific, the Tehuantepec vessel will have sealed that isthmus and be well on to the meridian of the Sandwich Islands, and that before the other vessel can worry through the fifteen or more hundred miles of windless ocean before her to reach the trade winds to the westward of Tehuantepec, the latter will have sped five thousand miles on her way across the Pacific, and be full thirty days ahead of her adversary. For it is a fact worth mentioning here that the strength of the northeast trade winds in the Pacific as well as the maximum strength of the northern portion of the great equatorial current in that ocean, are both found on or near the parallel of latitude of Tehuantepec, the former blowing with an impelling force to the westward of ten or twelve miles an hour, and the latter with a following strength of three or four miles per hour."

These are all very good reasons. But the rival schemes are now uppermost and the Tehuantepec route will hardly crowd itself into notice. Nicaragua is at present the focus of American and Panama of foreign attention.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER TRADE.

After all the talk about the great barge lines on the Mississippi river and the cheapness of water transport from "the great west" to Europe by way of St. Louis and New Orleans, the results of last year's commerce show how impossible it is to supersede railroad transportation. When the Mississippi route was opened it was proclaimed that St. Louis would soon supplant Chicago in control of the grain trade of the great Mississippi valley. The prediction has not been realized. There has been, in fact, a great decrease in grain shipments (for export) down the river for the year 1881 as compared with those of 1880. The decrease is not less than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat and 3,000,000 bushels of corn. Another point is still more significant. St. Louis is an important grain center, but her railroads do the larger part of her grain business. That is to say, more than half her total exports of wheat and corn for the year 1881 were carried by rail. Wheat shipments from St. Louis to New Orleans did not equal the receipts of wheat at Chicago by the Illinois and Michigan canal alone, and when it is shown also that they did not reach one-half the amount moved from St. Louis by rail, it is apparent that the celebrated barge lines have signally failed to fulfill expectations.

The fact is that in places where the volume of traffic is very large the railroads can and do carry at a rate that not only competes with water channels, but takes away traffic from them. It is believed by those who have studied the subject well that railroads will yet be able to carry at rates that will place water transport, which usually must take longer and always slower routes, almost or altogether out of the question. The fact that St. Louis, though a river city, ships more grain by rail than by river, even after the opening of the Mississippi at a cost of many millions, is an important point in this demonstration. It is now apparent that the water lines will never bear the products of "the west" to their market. But they may render an important service in keeping railroad rates down.

CALIFORNIA'S PROSPERITY.

California was never more prosperous than now. A San Francisco commercial paper boasts: "From every quarter of the state comes news of great business activity, new enterprises afoot, lists of improvements in cities and towns either entered on or contemplated, favorable prospects for the crops, and increased acreage sown. There is positively little or no shade to this picture—positively none, if we except the complaint of some, that the lower and west side of the San Joaquin valley has not had enough rain. There is said to be three million and a half acres sown to wheat, and we have the prospects of a good year. Had we sixteen bushels to the acre we would have a crop of 33,600,000 centals, worth about fifty million dollars, and a surplus as large as that of 1880-1, had we as in 1880 an average of twenty bushels our crop would be 42,000,000 centals, leaving at least one million six hundred thousand short tons for export. We have now according to our estimate a million tons of wheat on hand so that if these figures are correct, and we believe them to be, then we will have 2,640,000 tons of wheat to dispose of this year. Allowing that we shipped 1,600,000 tons in 1882, we would obtain for it in moderate figures $48,000,000, or nearly fifty millions of dollars for wheat alone. Our wool clip will probably reach fifty-two millions of pounds, worth ten and a half millions of dollars. There are splendid prospects for the fruit crop—in every way—we will probably have a heavy crop, while our canneries will be busy on the lookout for them at good prices. The outturn of gold will doubtless equal that of last year. Our vintage will, if no unforeseen events mar the crop, yield fifteen to sixteen million gallons of wine and brandy. And all this speaks well for the volume of trade that may be expected. There will doubtless be a lull for another month or so, and then the spring trade will begin to come in. Demands from a thousand points will have to be supplied, and each one will order much more than he did a year ago. The millennium has not yet come, but something like the old time activity will once again manifest itself in San Francisco."

A BANKRUPT LAW.

The senate judiciary committee to which was referred the question of a bankrupt law, is through Ingalls, its chairman, conducting a wide inquiry into the needs and wishes of the businessmen of the country. It is desired first of all to learn if business interests require a permanent bankrupt law and then what changes are desirable as compared with the act of 1867. Should officers be paid by fixed salaries or by fees? Should registers' powers be greater or less? should the limit of voluntary bankruptcy be three hundred dollars or higher? Should composition settlements be allowed? Should the discretion of the courts as to discharges be increased or diminished? These are in substance the questions which Mr. Ingalls has addressed the business men everywhere. The inquiry is not yet complete, but nearly so. Farmers as a rule do not want a bankrupt law. The opinions of merchants and manufacturing classes is greatly divided. New England merchants, who sell in large quantities, in the large towns want an act which will enable them to close up a bad account as speedily as possible. They would rather have small dividends promptly than larger ones later. There is a smaller class who are willing to take their chances with the state laws; and a third smaller class who regard the enactment of a bankrupt law not so much by the pecuniary interests involved as by moral considerations, in order that even justice may be done to all, dishonesty discouraged and prevented and blameless but unfortunate debtors discharged. Mr. Ingalls, it is said, is disappointed at the seeming lack of interest taken in the matter by business men of this coast who as a rule have neglected to answer his letters of inquiry. The committee expect to present some sort of a bankrupt law during the present session.

The national board of health has published some statistics upon the mortality in the principal cities and the District of Columbia. In the thirteen weeks ending on the 2d of April last, the annual death rate per thousand was: Boston, 26.1; Providence, 20.2; New York, 30.6; Brooklyn, 23.0; Buffalo, 17.3; Philadelphia, 23.8; Pittsburgh, 22.8; District of Columbia, 24.1; New Orleans, 20.6; Louisville, 20.7; Cincinnati, 20.9; Cleveland, 17.8; Chicago, 29.5; Milwaukee, 20.9; Detroit, 18.9; St. Louis, 21.4; San Francisco, 17.7. The total population of the cities from which reports are given is 8,315,100, and the total number of deaths, 48,144, representing an annual death rate per thousand of 23.2. The highest death rate belongs to Memphis, being at the rate of 41.5 per thousand; the mortality among the whites being at the rate of 33.7, and among the colored 61.1. The leading cause of this mortality in the various cities is consumption, which gives a death rate of 3.38 per thousand, and the next is pneumonia, giving a death rate of 3.5 per thousand. In the thirteen weeks ending on November 26 the figures were: Boston, 25.4; Providence, 17.7; New York, 29.9 Brooklyn, 26.3; Buffalo, 34.6; Philadelphia, 21.7; Pittsburgh, 30.1; District of Columbia, 26.4; New Orleans, 25.1; Cincinnati, 21.4; Cleveland, 26.8; Chicago, 26.0; Milwaukee, 23.1. San Francisco, 17.4.

The petroleum men now want the government to take care of them. As the production increases much faster than the consumption, they think congress should help them to make markets for their products abroad. It is protection in a new form. The simile of the taper still holds good. If he is too hot, he drinks; if too cold, he drinks; if sick, he drinks to get well; if well, he drinks to brace up and keep so. If the industry is small and struggling, protect it; if flourishing, protect it to keep it so and encourage it; if overdone, still protect it, and help those who would rather have the government support them than help themselves.

Statistics show that in the last fiscal year our grain exports exceeded our cotton in value, the former being $269,933,744 and the latter $237,695,756. Third on the list came provisions, with a value of $151,328,268. The mineral oil exports were about double those of tobacco; the former being $40,315,590 to the other's $20,868,884. The sixth highest export was "live animals." It reached a value of $16,112,393. These half dozen classes comprised about five-sixths of our total exports in value, our manufactured articles falling below an aggregate of a hundred millions.

General Terry, who is acknowledged to be one of the most efficient officers of the military service, publishes a letter on the subject of retirement and promotion in the army, in which he takes the position that retirement of officers on reaching a specific age should be made obligatory, as it is in the navy. The general gives excellent reasons for his suggestions, not the least forcible of which is that the keeping of old officers on the active list retards promotions, and that without constant promotions there is no opportunity for young men to come to the front.

Many English landlords are attempting to appease the clamors of their tenants by reductions in the rent rate. Gladstone joins the movement with a reduction of ten per cent. on his estate. It is reported as a singular fact, that clergymen whose livings consist partly in the income from lands owned by the church, show greater disinclination to reduce rents than any other class of holders. This illiberality cannot be excused by the plea of necessity as some of the church holdings yield princely incomes.

Not one American steamship crosses the ocean from New York, while $750,000,000 worth of produce is roughly estimated as the amount annually exported from that city to England, of which $650,000,000 goes in steamers. A little over twenty years ago three-fourths of our trade was done by our own ships. During the year ending on the 30th of last June, the total value of goods moved in American vessels was $250,833,526, in foreign vessels, $1,268,912,675. These figures bear their own hard comment.

Last winter the county of Douglas, in the southern part of Dakota, was organized by perjury. It has only about forty voters and the total value of its taxable property will not exceed $12,000 or $15,000. News has reached Yankton from New York that $200,000 in Douglas county bonds are on the market there. The county has neither a school house nor an authorized school district, and the securities named are absolutely worthless, as the entire organization of the county is illegal.

Dr. William Hunt, in a medical publication gives a careful criticism of President Garfield's case. He says that nine half-ounces of urine, which, if it had had connection with the kidneys, would have been reduced to one pint, were collected in the whole body. He says that the wound was not poisonous, that there was every caution forbade the use of instruments, and that nothing could have been gained by the removal of the bullet as per se it was unparticularly harmless, its course through the body having done the mischief. He adds that it is but a list of special pleading to say that the wound was not mortal.

A young married man in Brooklyn recently received notice anonymously that he must pay some masked enemies $1000, or he would be disgraced and seperated from his wife to whom the correspondence announced he was not legally married. He placed the case in the hands of the police and the blackmailer was soon caught. By and by this mode of attempting extortion from timid people will be found unprofitable, and perhaps be stopped.

Byrne, who was the editor of Truth at the time the Morey letter was published, has since seceded from that paper and is now running a little weekly sheet of his own. Hart the publisher of Truth, has just had him arrested on a charge of perjury. Perhaps in the course of the quarrel between them one or the other may tell who forged the Morey letter.

The San Francisco grand jury last week inspected the theatres, churches and public halls of that city to investigate their means of egress in case of panic by fire or other causes. With a single exception, they find means of escape wholly inadequate. Similar investigation here would show the condition of public buildings to be equally bad.

Within the past few weeks the fund for the endowment of a Garfield professorship at Williams college has received an addition to the amount of $8000. The total amount raised for the object specified is now about $35,000. The effort contemplates about $15,000 more.

Another "contribution to the peace of Europe" may be noted in the fact that Krupp, the great cannon maker of Germany, has been obliged to employ an additional force of 8000 men to keep up with his orders. He now employs 30,000 in all.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

The Daily Oregonian

FRIDAY MORNING, JAN. 13, 1882.

FOREIGN OPINION.

All the principal newspapers of Europe have given much attention to the Guiteau trial, with extended editorial comments at frequent intervals during its progress. To editorial minds of Europe the judicial and forensic farce which has had so incomprehensible a run in Washington is something which they cannot reconcile with any rules or precedents of procedure within the experience of courts in their own countries, nor with the principles of reason, nor with the dictates of common sense. But on one point the writers appear to be all agreed. One and all they regard Guiteau as a "spurious lunatic." On this point the London Times says: "Equally frivolous evidence has been adduced to show that Guiteau is an irresponsible lunatic. When these things are read in cold blood they appear not worth a moment's notice. If good for anything, they would prove some of the cleverest men to be irresponsible for their actions. Voltaire said of certain fashionable cases for madness that they appeared to be invented by the patients, and much the same remark may be made with respect to some of the proposed tests or proofs of it. But when cited in a court of justice by experts the strangest dicta may carry weight; at all events, they may serve to confuse or disturb the mind of some foggy or over-sensitive juryman. In a trial for murder men will clutch at anything which gives them a pretext for not finding a prisoner guilty of the capital offense. Perhaps doctors will never be able to suggest a test of insanity which will be of much use in courts of justice. At any rate, they have not yet come to an agreement on the subject. And even if they could draw the fine line which severs reason in her curious phases from the cloudy, sombre region of madness, can doctors tell us how to distinguish feigned insanity from the real eclipse of reason? Hitherto prisoners have rarely simulated madness, or they have done so only in a rude, inartistic way. But we may be certain that the manifestly endless variety of opinions entertained by experts will induce some criminals to resort to this as a last defense; and there may be offenders about whose mental state opinion may be as much divided as it has been with respect to the madness of Hamlet."

A writer in the San Francisco Bulletin who was in England when Payne was on trial, years ago, for striking Queen Victoria, recalls the fact that the judge charged the jury thus: "I may have an irresistible impulse to pick a man's pocket, but when I act upon that impulse I will be liable to punishment. Let 'irresistible impulse' once be admitted as excuse for crime and there will be no end to crime committed on that pretense." Here is a very proper precedent for Judge Cox in preparing his final charge to the jury. It sums up about all that needs to be said from the bench on this leading phase of the subject.

WHEAT TO THE UNITED KINGDOM.

Statistics of British trade are always accurate and full more so than those of any other nation. The British trade report for November last, just received, completes the statement for eleven months of the year 1881. During that period the imports of wheat from all quarters into the United Kingdom amounted to 97,166,086⅔ bushels, valued in the ports of arrival at an aggregate of £28,-604,086, equal to an average of 5s 10⅔d per bushel. Of this quantity 62,851,693⅓ bushels were derived from the United States, valued at £18,641,607, equivalent to an average of 5s 11⅓d per bushel. Atlantic ports furnished 43,910,462⅔ bushels, valued at £12,993,094, averaging 5s 11⅓d per bushel, and ports on the Pacific furnished 18,941,231 bushels, valued at £5,648,513, averaging 5s 11¼d per bushel. The corresponding statement for the first eleven months of 1880 is as follows: Aggregate imported into the United Kingdom, 94,548,583⅔ bushels, worth £28,116,749, or 5s 11⅓d per bushel, of which quantity 61,681,416⅔ bushels came from the United States, valued at £18,463,229, or 5s 11 5-6d per bushel, the share supplied from Atlantic ports being 49,862,-579⅓ bushels, valued at £14,768,080, or 5s 11 4-5d per bushel; and the share derived from Pacific ports being 11,818,830 1-6 bushels, valued at £3,695,149, or 6s 3d per bushels. It thus appears that, while the aggregate quantities and values, whether relating to all countries together, or to this country separately, were nearly the same in the two periods of eleven months, considerably more was taken from the Atlantic ports in 1880, and considerably less from them in 1881. The increase from Pacific ports is very marked. It is due in part to the excellent quality of our wheat, and in part to the extraordinary rates of freight, by which many vessels have been drawn hither. Of course the returns for the year 1882 will show a still larger proportional gain, since a small part of the wheat first loaded on the Pacific coast since last harvest has as yet arrived at its destination. It will be seen that the average price of our wheat for 1881, valued in the ports of arrival, was about six shillings, or say $1 45 per bushel.

CHICAGO BUSINESS REVIEW.

The business vigor of Chicago is something tremendous. Each year's trade statement is surprisingly greater than its predecessor, and the aggregate advance during the past decade is simply wonderful. The Tribune of December 31st sets forth the "Trade, Commerce and Manufacture" of Chicago for 1881, in a sixteen page edition, the paper itself being a marvel in its comprehensiveness and breadth of detail. Receipts of breadstuffs foot up the enormous total of 148,825,000 bushels. The receipts of flour were 4,957,000 barrels, being about 50 per cent more than in 1880. The receipts of live hogs were 6,470,900 and 5,178,-000 were slaughtered in or near the city. The receipts of cattle were 1,540,830 head. The total value of live stock handled was $192,500,-000. The produce trade foots up $877,000,000 without reckoning sales for future delivery. The wholesale sales aggregated $423,000,000. The value of manufactures aggregated $309,-000,000,—an increase of $24,000,000 over 1881. The receipts of lumber were 1,853,040,000 feet. The total trade of the year amounted to $1,-015,000,000, being a gain of 12.8 per cent. The bank clearances were $2,250,000,000, an increase of 30⅓ per cent. The review, as a whole, presents a strong proof of the regular and continuous expansion of the trade and manufactures of Chicago.

The fishing business of the great lakes is set forth in census bulletin 261, grouped in sixteen tables. Of the states which border on the lakes—Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York—Michigan employs the largest number of men, some 1781; Ohio the next, 1046; and New York the third, 922. The total number of men engaged is 5050. With their apparatus and accessories, a capital is employed of $1,-345,979. There are 49 steam tugs used in this fishing, and the total number of vessels and boats of all kinds is 1067, valued at $236,600. The catch of these states represents, in weight, 53,712,000 pounds of fish, worth $1,784,050, the fish being represented principally by the white fish, salmon trout, herring and sturgeon. Michigan catches 24,923,300 pounds; Ohio 21,-013,100 pounds; New York, 4,070,000 pounds. White fish is the most valuable fish, being worth alone $788,100. The importance of the sturgeon fishery becomes quite manifest when we find that in 880 712,000 pounds were used, worth $146,300. In examining the products derived from the sturgeon we find that caviare represents $34,315; isinglass, $5,765. Of smoked fish, of which the sturgeon would represent the major part, the value was a fraction less than $ 10,000. Lake Michigan represents a lesser bulk of fish caught than Lake Erie, but the value of the Michigan fish are $568,400, while Erie's are $412 800. The difference arises in the catch and worth of white-fish, which, on Lakes Michigan, is valued at $440,000, while in Lake Erie, the same fish is worth $77,900. Lake Huron and St. Clair represented in 1880, some $132,700 worth of white-fish. Examining the statistics of the values of fresh and salted fish from the same section, fresh fish was worth $1,102,950, while salted fish was worth $402,670. In frozen fish the values were $126,100.

A new phase of the litigation over the barbed wire patents is reported. Washburn, Moen & Co., of Worcester, Mass., are owners of patents under which royalty is claimed from every maker and user of barbed wire for fencing purposes in the United States. But there is still one patent which holds out against this company, and under it a farmers' co-operative association in Iowa is obtaining a barbed wire at prices far below those of the monopoly. Litigation is now pending to test the validity of this patent. But the Worcester company, thinking that the surest way to win the case would be to buy the rival patent off, has sought through a contract with J. H. Coon, agent or contractor for the co-operative association, to control the rival factory. Coon partly owns the patent which the monopoly desires to secure, but he has several partners in the ownership, and the firm has a contract to furnish the barbed wire to the farmers' association for a long period. The Worcester company finally agreed to pay $18,000, of which Coon was to get $10,000, but actually got only $1,060 cash paid him as an earnest of the bargain. As soon as the story got out his partners refused to endorse his sale and fortified their factory to prevent him from delivering the goods and machinery to the purchasers. About the only result of the whole transaction is to prejudice somewhat seriously the case of the Worcester company in the approaching trial.

As compared with 1880, the cases of small-pox in New York during 1881, were as eighteen to one—an alarming increase. The Herald urges that vaccination be made compulsory by an act of congress, and in particular that every immigrant that comes into an American port be vaccinated. It is the opinion of many that the rapid spread of the smallpox at the present time is largely caused by arrivals from foreign countries; but whether this is so or not, its ravages may be arrested by vaccination, if taken in season and this precaution faithfully attended to. It will be found that in those districts where smallpox is most prevalent, vaccination has been most neglected.

John Bright, speaking recently of the scheme advocated in England under the name of "free trade" is nothing better than a partial and temporary system of relief, a pauper mendicity application, a feeding of a dog with its own tail. He said that no one in the British islands has been turned out of work by foreign imports. Since 1840, the commencement of the free trade era, an added population of ten millions has been employed and fed. Every one in the British islands is far better employed, paid and fed than forty years ago. The cry of industrial distress, he says, is invented by the tories of the baser sort.

The United States has made wonderful progress in grain production in ten years. The yield of wheat and corn in 1870 and 1880 was as follows, in bushels:

1880, Wheat....459,479 505|1880, Corn....1,754,861,535
1870, Wheat....287,745 626|1870, Corn.... 760,994,549

The growth of the wheat crop during the ten years was 171,733,879 bushels, and the corn crop 993,866,986 bushels. It is true that 1880 was a remarkably productive year, but the gain in corn and wheat from 1870 to 1880 as here shown, was not much greater than that from 1860 to 1870. And there is no reason to doubt that the gain from 1880 to 1890 will be equally as great.

Many people are under the impression that Texas is a vast and treeless plain. It is far from being that. A recent census bureau circular contains an elaborate map of her pine forests, with statistics of the lumber industry. It shows that during the year ending in May last 270,444,000 feet of lumber were cut in the state, and this is but a small beginning of her industry in that line.

St. Paul last year erected business houses and blocks which cost $2,280,200, and residences which cost $1,885,400. Public buildings costing $350,000 were likewise erected in the city, making a total of more than $4,500,-000 expended on buildings in the city during the year.

The half dozen eastern papers which are urging the appointment of Sargent answer several absurd charges which need no refutation, but singularly neglect the objections put forward by several Pacific coast papers.

EXECUTION OF TOMMY-HOP-TOWNE.

SPECIAL REPORT TO THE OREGONIAN

YAKIMA CITY, Jan 10, via THE DALLES, Jan 12 —To-day at the hour of 3 2 30 P M., the execution of Tommy-hop-Towne took place at the jail in this place, and was performed by Sheriff Schnebly This Indian is the last one of the seven who murdered Lorenzo D Perkins and his wife at Rattlesnake springs during the Indian raid in the summer of 1878.

The rest have all met their fate except Moostinic, who was released by the court for turning state's evidence Chuchhuc killed himself when about to be captured Wynoat was killed by the sheriff's posse while in. was trying to escape from prison. Tweone was killed by Mr. York the jailer, while he and others made a raid on the jail, Klipe and Soluskin were both executed by the sheriff in November, 1879 The present one is a small Indian, and very shrewd He made his escape twice and was finally recaptured last summer and was tried and sentenced at our last October term of court at this place These Indians were mostly Umatillans that had lived and worked among the whites more or less, and were all quite intelligent It is thought and maintained by the people of this upper country that the decided action of the people of Yakima county in ferreting out and bringing these Indians to justice has had a better effect in quelling the Indians than all of Gen. Howard's campaign They have learned to fear the law and to keep the peace.—This is the same that fired the fatal shot and killed Perkins, and Chuchhuc killed the woman All seven were present and confessed the main facts and divided the property among themselves

BOARD OF FIRE DELEGATES.

Last night the Board of Fire Delegates held a regular meeting, President Jos. Hinson in the chair, and the following members present Messrs Sears, Church, Christie, Taylor, Tanner, Kelton, Neppach, Young, Hart, Joyce, Summers, Quimby, Compton, and Kendenhall

KINDERGARTEN

Synopsis of Mrs. Kate Smith Wiggins' Lecture on that Subject at Unitarian Church

Mrs Wiggin at the Unitarian church last evening, made a most delightful address to a large audience of ladies and gentlemen interested in the subject of kindergartens Mrs Wiggin is a most intense and magnetic speaker who holds her audience spell bound with every word and sentence she utters Her subject was that always dear to the hearts of parents, the training of children and the development of character, and she presented her views to the point in a most interesting manner

The speaker said that striking truths which had followed themselves with the force of axioms so self evident as to be accepted without argument, were lying all around us, and that the child from the moment of its birth was ready to receive impressions from the world around it Its little mind was like a blank sheet of paper, on which every passing object left its impress, and it was the duty of parents to see that these impressions were of the right character

The child's own powers must be stimulated but not suppressed by the instructor s dogmatism, and the end to be sought is to lead to the acquisition of knowledge as the stimulation of the powers of further acquisition It is the self-teaching that educates him Froebel s system gives us the only natural beginning and to make it productive of its vanticipated results it must be placed in the hands of thoroughly trained kindergartens, filled by nature and art for their most delicate and responsible and sacred profession The primary school as it is cannot undertake the work until with children of a certain fixed age and standard when they already have been perverted from that always to be remembered truth that the child is a unit, complete in itself, and not a fraction to be completed by addition from other children

NIHILISM.

Mr. Wortman's second lecture drew out an intelligent audience yesterday evening at the Unitarian church, and the subject was handled well. He showed how most governments are criminally repressive, and ever against reform. Laws are made for corporations, like the Illinois and Mississippi Rail... which is to be run fully as much in the interest of the... and creditors as in that of the people, and... are to be contemporaneous saving themselves... have a Michael Yakimm dethroning God, right, property, marriage, social and political law called, speedily punishable with banishment. Without... tests sounds like the American declaration of Inde... pendence—a simple demand for self-government and true liberty. As the background of the more sombre nihilism, the condition of Russia as struggling and in its national evolution was given. It is a great unwatered plain; no mountains or sea tempt the people to adventure. It is a vast prison with a European exterior, but an Asiatic heart; its civilization a kind of surface parody or imitation. Thus its law code has 15,000 pages, but law in any proper or universal sense it has none. A happy illustration of the caprice of the czars will was given. When, tired of the discussion of a par... it used coolly by opposing counsels, he laid a ruler on the map from one point to the other and said, "Let the line run there." And so it was built, in defiance of engineering and economy. The real cloud wrong at the root of nihilism is the tyranny of the "Third Section," a fearful police organization, irresponsible and secret, whose power falls like paralysis or... rows on every suspected man or woman. The story of Vera Sassulitch was given as an illustration. The lecturer thought that under the terrible system of despotism, acting on the inadequately tempered... of Russians, their brains have often given away—and hence the deadly fanaticism and self-sacrifice in the ranks of the infamous thing called the government. Over against the assassination of the... czar we noted place the 25,000 banishments which took place during his mild rule. Russia is not only a despotism but a land of deep corruption among officials—a land where spies cost more than the whole educational system. A whole people is tortured, and what wonder, when the right of free government and institutions are about them in other nations, that they seek blindly for remedies to their political condition?

It is not the uneducated masses which are moving but the upper strata of Russian society, where there is just light enough to discover the thick darkness. Revolutions are the brutal rifts of progress, and thus dark bloody band of nihilism is progress, or that out of which the sentence will go forth for revolution in Russia. It is the people's turn, and before them the fancied rights of empire must give way, and out of chaos will come order and liberty.

The lecture was closely listened to and heartily applauded at its close. As an opening, a beautiful song was given by Miss Chamberlin accompanied by Miss Teal.

BRIEF MENTION.

Skating carnival at the rink to-night.

Note the change in the "State's" sailing date.

The Columbia sails for Portland this morning.

Mr. E. J. Bailey, O. R. & N. timekeeper at Hood River, is in the city.

Capt. Charles Thorn, formerly of the California, arrived by the "State" Thursday evening.

The Juvenile Temperance Society will meet at the Congregational church this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The engine companies have received their quarterly allowance from the city and as a consequence there is happiness among the fire boys.

A stableman employed at Acker & Leihy's, generally known as Aleck, was kicked in the head by a horse late Thursday night while grooming him. Though rendered insensible by the blow, he soon recovered and is now attending to his usual duties.

A FINE COLT.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

Casper Zorn, of Champoeg, Marion county, has a colt one year and two months old that stands fifteen hands and three inches high and measures six feet four inches around the girth. He is half Percheron stock and half Lapplander. If any stockmen can beat this, please come to the front.

CHAMPOEGITE.

[If there is a finer colt in Oregon or Washington than Mr. Zorn's, the public should know it. The Oregonian's columns will be open for one month from date for such information. Correspondents must be absolutely correct in figures given. Should doubt arise concerning their accuracy, affidavits may be demanded.—Ed. Colt Editor.]

HIS LAST LEAP.

Execution of Tommy Hop-Twowawe at Yakima City for the Perkins Murder—Demeanor of the Criminal and Scenes of the Scaffold.

SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.

Yakima City, W. T., via The Dalles, Or., Jan. 13.—Between the hours of 11 and 12 a reporter visited the condemned Indian in his cell and asked if he had anything to say. He replied.

"This is the day that I am to be hanged, and I am ready. I wish to thank Messrs. Schnebly & York for their kindness toward me during my imprisonment. Before you put that black cap over my face, I would like the privilege of shaking hands with all my Indian friends, and I ask the sheriff to see them once just as I bid farewell to the world."

The prisoner was dressed in a red shirt, a red and white striped blanket tied with a cord at his waist and hanging down in his moccasins, covered like feet. His hair hung below his shoulders and his countenance was bright and cheerful. Just as the reporter left the walls of the cell, he said to the sheriff:

"After I shake hands with my friends, I want you to draw this black cap closely about my face."

As he stepped from the door of the jail, seeing quite a crowd assembled to witness the execution, he seemed very much pleased and saluted them with "Hello, boys." The prisoner paused at the foot of the steps leading up the scaffold, and all of Tommy Pollens gave his hand a farewell shake. The squaws marched up in single file and each turned over a present before giving their hand to the condemned man. The interpreter stated that this was the custom among the natives when about to part, well forever. He held the hands of his wife and first another for a few moments and talked in his native tongue. After the last one had first past he said, "That's all. I am ready." At just 12 o'clock he ascended the steps. Father Wilbur offered a short prayer, then Tommy said:

"You all see me. I am your brother. I hope you have no ill feeling toward me. I love you all and I am ready to die this day. I shall go to heaven and I hope to meet all of you there."

At 12:10 his hands and feet were tied, and while the sheriff was adjusting the rope, Tommy was looking around to see how the trap was to be sprung which would launch him into eternity. The black cap was pulled over his face, and at just 12:11 Tommy-hop-Twowawe was suspended between heaven and earth. The knot slipped around to the back of his neck, and in two minutes his whole body quivered with pulse at 65. The third minute the breast heaved, pulse, 80; fourth and fifth, pulse very irregular; fifth, pulse 31; seventh, 46; eighth, 37; ninth, 30; tenth, 29; eleventh, 17; twelfth, 10; thirteenth 3, and at the 14th minute the pulse ceased. At the 20th minute the body was cut down and taken charge of by his friends. They placed it in a four horse wagon and drove rapidly away. Drs. Morrison and Taft, after making an examination, stated that only the hyoid bone of the neck was broken.

THE ROBESON TRIAL.

His Guilt Fixed by the First Ballot, but Twenty-eight Days were Required for a Verdict.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

Astoria, Jan. 12, 1882.

Judge Stott adjourned the district court this evening, after a session of ten days, seven of which were occupied in re-trying Robeson for the murder of J. W. Robb in April last. The evidence adduced was almost literally the same, and the case excited but little interest as compared with the former trial. After the panel of twelve jurymen was completed, it seemed to be the general opinion that no verdict would be agreed upon, and many were the conjectures whether, in that event, Robeson would be acquitted or the prosecuting attorney demand a third trial. The jury retired to deliberate at 3 P. M. on Wednesday, and when at midnight they still remained locked up, it was thought evident that the general surmise that they would not agree was correct. At 7 this morning, however, the sheriff assembled the court to receive a unanimous verdict of "guilty of murder in the second degree." From one of the jury I ascertained that 29 ballots were taken. The first ballot was unanimous that the defendant was guilty of killing Robb. The other ballots taken were as to the degree of the crime committed, and after about fourteen hours of discussion and deliberation, the twenty-ninth ballot showed that all had agreed that J. G. Robeson was guilty of murder in the second degree. There is no doubt that the fact that no mortal eyes other than those of the victim and his murderer witnessed the bloody deed, the only of necessity resting the case entirely on circumstantial evidence, saved the prisoner from a verdict which would have carried with it the penalty of death on the gallows. Fortunately for him there were men on that jury who could not be induced to render a verdict that would hang a man on circumstantial evidence, however strong. Robeson was brought into court this evening and received his sentence as coolly and composedly as he had listened to the rendition of the verdict of the jury. When asked by the judge if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed, he promptly and firmly responded, "Nothing, your honor." Judge Stott then said, "Prisoner, the law allows me no discretion in this matter; the penalty is fixed, and the order of the court is that you be imprisoned in the state penitentiary for the term of your natural life." The prisoner resumed his seat and for a time engaged in an animated and smiling conversation with lawyer Winton, his whole bearing giving to a looker-on the impression that he was perfectly contented with the final result of his trial, and well pleased that the verdict of the jury had affixed a degree to the crime committed which did not involve with it his speedy dissolution.

CLATSOP COUNTY COURT.

The only criminal action tried at the term of the circuit court just concluded at Astoria, was that of State vs. Robeson, already referred to. The grand jury met and adjourned without returning an indictment.

Divorces were granted the plaintiffs in the following cases:

Philip Condit v Mary Condit.
B. B. Bonnett v Ida A. Bonnett.
Synthia Simmons v Henry Simmons.
Stephen Batts v Henrietta Batts.
A. E. Heuston v Wm. Heuston.

A SAD CASE.

THE FREAKS OF A MADMAN IN BAKER COUNTY.

He Attempts the Lives of a Sheriff's Party and is Fatally Wounded Etc.

[From the Baker City Tribune, Jan. 7.

Some few weeks ago an insane man by the name of John Cayler, who had been working in the neighborhood for a short time, walked unconcerned into the domicile of Mr. Hull, near Wingville, this county, and informed that gentleman that there was to be his future home. Mrs. Hull was living at a... at the time, and the insane man was properly treated and regarded to make his home excellent for the time being. This he refused to do, and could be persuaded to leave the house under any circumstances, and declared he would remain with him at all hazards. To have any disturbance between the insane man and Hull might endanger the life of his wife. Mr. Hull objected to the arrangement as best he could, save the insane man food and shelter and set him to work on his ranch.

Cayler was armed with a revolver, and could not be persuaded to part with it, daily asking, even on... that he was pursued, and that who ever attempted to take him should forfeit his life.

Not only Mr. Hull, but the entire neighborhood lived in constant fear, and on the 29th of December last certain citizens made oath as to the facts in the case before Judge A. B. Elmer, and a warrant was issued and placed in Sheriff Trueblood's hands, together with the information that Cayler, some years ago, had been sent to the Oregon insane asylum from... county, and subsequently discharged. The sheriff rode out to take his man with that warning way of his, but after a short consultation it was decided that discretion was the better valor. He then held consultation with his deputies, and with the intention of waiting, hoping to catch Cayler off his guard. Whether one or all of the sheriff's posse took the responsibility at the time and this family with whom he was staying, the record was not made, and without a word being spoken in reference to the insane man, after the posse left Cayler would hardly know that "there was another crowd that was afraid to tackle him."

On the part of the week Cayler assisted Hull in killing hogs, but kept his revolver fast to his side, changing at times from one side to the other. Mr. Hull suggested the idea that the pistol was in his way, and that Cayler had better take it off and place it under his coat for safe keeping. This Cayler refused to do, saying, "This revolver is my God, and I'll stay with it."

Cayler became short of cartridges for his revolver and George Mays was sent to the store, purposely purchasing some of a wrong caliber for him. On asking for the pistol to "try the cartridges and see if they would fit," Mr. Mays was informed that that dodge was "too thin; I will not part with that pistol." The sheriff was kept informed of all these transactions and has offered an individual reward to any one that would disarm the insane man in a peaceable manner. The method proved as futile as the others.

For the past three days and nights the sheriff and his posse have remained secreted in the neighborhood of Hulls, thinking to entrap their man. On yesterday morning Cayler informed Hull that he was "going to Wingville to buy some cartridges, and I expect to kill two or three men before I get back." On his way to the store he passed the sheriff, who allowed him to get a short distance ahead, when he and his two deputies stepped forth from their place of concealment, walking toward Cayler, and the sheriff called on Cayler to stop as he wished to talk with him. Cayler wheeled and faced the sheriff, drawing his revolver at the same time and firing at the posse. Thinking to intimidate the insane man, the sheriff fired his shot gun in the air, and simultaneously Cayler again fired his revolver at the sheriff and his side. It was getting to be interesting to all concerned about this time, and the sheriff, after consultation, fired his shotgun at the legs of Cayler, but he, having on a thick overcoat, which protected him, or else because of the poor marksmanship of our sheriff, no blood was drawn. In the meantime a revolver bullet sped uncomfortably close to the ears of the two deputies, who were armed, one with a navy revolver and the other a Winchester rifle, both carrying balls of small calibre, and both deputies fired together, the ball from one of the guns taking effect in Cayler's right hip, passing through the lower part of the abdomen and lodging underneath the skin on the left side. Cayler dropped on his knees but kept pulling the trigger of his revolver. The sheriff and posse ran to the wounded man, disarmed him instantly and sent to this place for physicians. After Cayler was disarmed his fighting propensities oozed out with the flowing blood; and in a minute or so was very sorry for what he had done and begged pardon. He lingered all night in this state and about noon on the following day died.

OREGON TO MASSACHUSETTS.

Some time ago, Messrs. Hodge, Davis & Co., of this city, read in a Massachusetts paper that Hon. Charles R. Ladd, auditor of that state, was afflicted with an incurable kidney disease, and had been obliged to give up work and return to his home. They immediately wrote him a box of their celebrated Oregon Kidney Tea, and from time to time sent him other boxes. A few days ago they received from him the following letter:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts,
Auditor's Dep't, Boston, Nov. 11, 1881.

Messrs. Hodge Davis & Co.: Dear Sirs—I have no hesitation in saying that I have been much benefited by the use of the Oregon Kidney Tea as a remedy for a kidney difficulty which has troubled me for six or eight years. I can heartily recommend it to those who are similarly afflicted, as a safe and agreeable remedy. I shall use its virtues further, for I have great faith in it as a specific for many diseases of the kidneys. Respectfully yours,

CHAS. R. LADD.

The original of this letter can be seen by calling on Messrs. Hodge Davis & Co., Portland, Oregon, and the Oregon Kidney Tea can be bought of any druggist or dealer, in Oregon or Washington. Price $1 per box.

THE POSTAL INVESTIGATION AT INDEPENDENCE.

INDEPENDENCE, Jan. 8, 1882.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Public expectancy at this place was excited to the highest pitch by the announcement that Postal Inspector Simpson would hold a public investigation of the charges preferred against Postmaster Hodgin by the Duniway Publishing Company. Pursuant to said announcement, the investigation was held in Sloper's hall, Independence, on the 3d instant. A large concourse of people, including quite a number of ladies, were present at the investigation and considerable feeling pro and con was manifested in a quiet way, even by the more solute portion of the audience, while on the other hand the "hoodlum" element were indecorously obstreperous in their conduct (and I will remark, by way of parenthesis, that this element were to a man opposed to the lady who came here to seek redress of a flagrant wrong perpetrated upon her legal rights as a publisher). The rude and indecent clamor manifested by these illiterate groundlings was not, as many imagine, a crude expression of sympathy in behalf of our postmaster, of whose honor and integrity I have a high opinion, but rather the vulgar expression of a depraved public sentiment against the enlightened political movement of which the senior editor of the New Northwest is so zealous and able an exponent. And right at this point I wish to call attention to the notorious fact that our peace officers, whose duty it is to preserve order at all public gatherings, sat complacently in their seats and said never a word in rebuke of all this hissing, cat-calling and donkey-braying.

Of course, the better element of society has no sympathy with such rowdyism, and while it is true that a majority of our citizens were in sympathy with Mr. Hodgin—a state of feeling based upon the very probable hypothesis that Mr. H. had perpetrated no malicious or intentional wrong—yet it is not true that the publishers of the New Northwest had no sympathizers among the people of Independence.

I personally know that a large element among our best citizens felt keenly the fact that a wrong of some kind had been perpetrated by some one upon them; and the evidence brought out by this investigation clearly established that fact in the minds of every right thinking man and woman present at the investigation.

Without fear or favor, I shall proceed to summarize the facts established by this investigation.

1. It was clearly proven that the package in controversy was addressed by the publishers to "Independence, Polk Co., Or." or "Independence, Or.," and that these were the only words originally written upon the wrapper.

2. It was established on evidence that the name "Ida H. Vaughn" appeared to be written in ink upon the margin of the newspaper enfolded within the wrapper, yet was plainly visible through the thin manilla wrapping paper and misled the postmaster, and several other parties to believe that the name above mentioned constituted a part of the address upon said wrapper.

3. That this package of papers was delivered to the husband of the lady aforementioned, and that he, through motives best known to himself, returned the package by express (C. O. D.) to the publishers.

Such are the facts elicited by this investigation.

That Mr. Hodgin was not guilty of any intentional dereliction of duty was established by evidence on the part of defense. On the other hand, the Duniway Publishing Company established by great unanimity and clearness of testimony that this particular package in dispute was addressed as the law in such cases requires. Upon this point, and this was the point, their victory was complete and overwhelming.

The postal inspector evidently aimed to deal justly and fairly by all parties concerned, yet there was an air about him throughout the entire investigation which seemed to indicate that peculiar condition of mind so inimitably described by Butler in Hudibras:

"He that complies against his will,
Is of his own opinion still."

Per announcement, Mrs. Duniway, in company with Mrs. Loughary, of McMinnville, visited Independence on Friday last, and in the evening each delivered a very interesting and acceptable lecture in Butler's opera house before a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen. Mrs. Loughary is a very forcible speaker, logical and convincing in argument. It was edifying to see with what ease she could refute the sophistical arguments of the opponents of equal rights. Her talents are much needed in the lecture field to-day. It is sincerely hoped that she will again favor us with another of her inimitable and interesting lectures.

Mrs. Duniway's remarks were, in a measure, supplementary, I might say, to her able and eloquent speech before the postal investigation. She took for her subject "The legal rights of woman," and clearly and logically followed out the historical line of argument from the time when the law justified the husband in resorting to corporeal discipline in bringing his wife into subjection, to the meridian splendor of the nineteenth century, when we are beginning to have some conception of woman's true social position, and are enacting a few enlightened laws in her favor. Mrs. Duniway's discourse was replete with wit, pathos, logic and eloquence, and telling points in her argument were often received with tumultuous applause. By the splendid courage of her convictions, tireless energy and great native and acquired talents, she is making for herself a name that will live resplendent in history.

A SUFFRAGIST.

The Condition of Trade at New York.

NEW YORK, 13.—The condition of trade business is exceedingly active for the week immediately following the holiday season. Orders for merchandise from all over the country are liberal. Prices are firm for most commodities and there seems to be a hopeful feeling in mercantile circles generally.

The wheat and corn market has been steady with a fair amount of business doing at about previous prices. The market closes weak.

Lard and pork products have been fairly active, but the advance of the latter part of last week has been nearly all lost, and the market closed weak.

The volume of business in cotton for the week has been quite large, with prices fluctuating within range of 20 points. The market closes fairly steady at a fraction below last week's prices.

In wool there has been a regular and steady business doing, but large in amount, but sufficient to keep prices steady at about previous rates.

The petroleum market is dull, dragging and unsatisfactory. In freights, owing to scarcity of desirable tonnage, rates hold good, and there is considerable activity in petroleum freights.

Lumber shows a small difference, and there is a disposition in some quarters to cut prices to get trade. Large holders, however, express confidence in not only a firm market for the spring, but still further advance, and are not disposed to sacrifice stock. The general tone is good and business of the year satisfactory.

Since New Years there has been very little animation in the leather trade, and therefore no heavy buyers are in the market as yet, although there has been a little more call for some kinds of sole leather.

The boot and shoe trade remains effectually quiet. Many of the dealers are now engaged in taking stock and the general belief is that little gain will be shown on last year's business.

The demand for American pig iron is good and prices remain firm. A fair business is being done in Scotch pig. In other branches of trade business is good and prices firm.

The produce trade has shown little animation during the past week. Prices are steady and good, both in butter and cheese, which are scarce. The stock on hand of both these staples is rather smaller than at this time last year.

The foreign fruit trade is in very good shape. Money has been made by most of the houses and though the balance of the season is likely to be dull, on the whole the year has been a very satisfactory one.

The drug trade is very quiet again and prices are steadier than they have been, but there is little doing and little looked for for a month or two.

In the sugar trade the only feature to note is that the production of hard sugar will be quite limited for some time, owing to the burning of Havemeyer's refinery, and prices have advanced about a cent in price. Raw sugars are firm in consequence and holders are not inclined to make concessions. The demand for distributing trade is quite moderate. The sugar market will be governed very much by the amount of the new crop, which will be known very shortly.

In tea there is no change, though some speculation has given more firmness to the market. Importers generally are suffering losses by present low rates and the future of the market cannot be predicted on the present basis.

In Brazil coffees there is nothing special to note. Large operators are keeping aloof from the market in view of the incoming crop, which is believed to be large. The only activity arises from the distributing trade which is fair. No change in prices.

The dry goods trade is still quiet, though there is a slight improvement since last week. Buyers from the south and west are arriving in considerable numbers and a brisk trade is looked for shortly. Those who are buying are buying very freely and the outlook for a large spring trade is very good.

DR. BRENAN,

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs of private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the such as SPERMATORRHŒA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nine-tenths of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to claim until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations undermined and the hope of future happiness blighted, and death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Brain Colds, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office—132 and 134 Third St., opposite Masonic Hall. Office Hours—From 10 to 12 A.M. 2 to 4 and 7 to 8 P.M. All letters of professional business must be addressed DR. PAUL M. BRENAN & CO., Portland, Oregon.

FRIDAY MORNING, JAN. 13, 1882.

THROUGH THE MOUNTAINS.

Railroad and Other Matters Wafted from Midst the Crags and Peaks of the Cascades. The Opening of Happy Hunting Grounds, etc.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The general opinion prevailed among the people, that from the moment J. L. Hallet, late Marshall, pierced a roadway through the Cascades, it would only be a question of a very short time when the iron horse would be heard snorting through the deep canyons "where rolls the mighty Oregon." But few realized the great cost and magnitude of grading a roadbed through Oregon's mighty barrier, and, but fewer yet have any conception of the amount of work which yet remained after the roadbed had been completed. The latter in itself having been one of the greatest engineering undertakings of the day, considering the circumstances, cost and time employed. It is only necessary to pass over

THE WORK

Completed, and "judge by what is seen, not heard." Chief Engineer Thielsen deserves great credit for the manner in which he has pushed the work along—allowing no impediment to bar his way—pushing slowly but steadily ahead amid rain and snow. In a week or so more the pile-drivers will have completed their task, and will be removed, with headquarters to East Portland, where work will begin anew, to result ultimately in making one unbroken iron band from the metropolis, Portland, to Grange City, on the Snake river. Those given to complaints in regard to "slowness" should but look back in the not forgotten past—only one short year ago, and compute the miles of railroad then in operation in eastern Washington and Oregon. Fourteen miles at The Dalles and thirty from Walula to Walla Walla. Forty-four miles of road with but poor and inadequate rolling stock. What a change has come over the destiny of this great

INLAND EMPIRE.

Track is now being laid from The Dalles down, and fifteen miles of road is in operation from the lower incline at the Cascades up, and is now awaiting the completion of a contract bridge at Penland's, when the track-layers can make a complete run from miles beyond Hood river, the bridges being all completed within that distance, with the exception of raising the Howe-truss bridge across Hood river. The piers upon which the latter bridge abuts are a model of masonry, and there is nothing to-day in Oregon that will compare with them in either substantiality or workmanship. Over 90,000 feet of timber was used in their construction besides iron and stone. The building of bridges is under the immediate construction of W. Dicus, a veteran bridge builder, and a master mechanic of no little merit. The manner in which he pushes along the work, and the workmanship has not yet been equaled in the railroad annals of

THE WEST WEST.

Thanks to good workmen, good foreman and a good superintendent of bridges and buildings—Mr. V. Donley, we will soon have rail connection with the outside world. From railroaders of experience who have worked on the Central and Southern Pacific, now on this road, I learn that the difficulty that was experienced on the former roads in regard to the furnishing of material, has been entirely obviated here, there being no time but that material was on hand. Mr. Chase has under his direction about 125 skilled mechanics, a good force of laborers and several gangs of Chinamen under the direct charge of Oriental shepherds. Nor must be said that the bridge builders were ever "short" of carpenters but at the same time there is always an opening for a good mechanic at fair wages. The food furnished the men is better than the average found in $5 and $6 hotels; hence on the railroad side of the line old scissors to become the board. The establishment of the road between The Dalles and the Cascades will give a boom to the town of

GOOD RIVER,

As a summer resort—one of the most beautiful spots in Oregon; eyes, a stretch of sandy beach, a pallisade-bound shore, a rolling meadow, a group of cottages in a grove of fair old oaks and pines, a mountain forest in the far left, tumbling tumbling down its rocky course, now as placid as a mirror, then over rapids, and a turbulent seething mass, forcing its way through gigantic boulders worn smooth by the action of former floods and freshets, and you have the town of Hood River. It presents a very pretty appearance as seen from the site where the station is to be located. The low white tents of the railroaders, the hotel, stores and residences standing out boldly from the trees by which they are surrounded, the purple-green Columbia partially lined with foaming billows, the rolling hills of green and yellow, with Mount Hood grim and majestic, covered with her mantle of snow for a background, and on the other hand, Mount Adams, as a

SOLITARY SENTINEL,

Glittering in his purity, keeping eternal vigil over his less pretentious neighbors, all combine to make the scene peaceful, beautiful and romantic. Ha'ont encamble resembles somewhat a southern California resort—only on a grander scale. Here, the follower of Izaak Walton considers himself in his "piscatile." Trout are a drudge in the local market, and such saucy speckled creatures, averaging from six to twenty inches in length, game, as the most fastidious piscatorial student could desire, coming as they do from swift icy cold water, they are a rit dish for the most grouty connoisseur. You will say probably "they are salmon trout," but such is not the fact. What we have reference to is the well known silver sided and mountain trout, such as the unfortunate denizens of the metropolis would consider a favor to be able to purchase at fifty cents each, retail. But what I have trout and scenery to do with railroads. We have diverged from our subject, but yet upon more mature reflection does not this railroad open the gates of life

EARTHLY PARADISE.

To those who each year leave the unhealthy cities for one gasp of pure fresh air? Certainly; and this hint will serve you the coming season when you desire recreation, and, par parenthese, I may remark that Hood river is not troubled with dust, mosquitoes or mountain flies, and above all things, reader, when you do visit this place come with tents and blankets; Don't stop at hotels—you can do that in the city. Rusticate when you can; it is a luxury all cannot enjoy. For the present we will part: you to homes of comfort if not luxury, whilst we, poor "we," will wrap ourself in our serape, defy the pattering rain and steep the sleep of that snow-born mountaineer, DON RAPHAEL.

The chair of English literature, provided for by Mr. Henry Villard in the state university, has been tendered to Prof. C. E. Lambert, late of Willamette university.

In Waitman county there was originally 1,612,800 acres of R. R. lands, of which have been sold nearly 300,000 acres. The land office of this company is located at Cheney, in Spokane county.

Plans for a new depot, 27x100 feet in size, have been received at Walla Walla. The new building will be attached to the lower end of the big freight shed, and will be used for freight purposes. Good.

Martha, a four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawley, of Salem, died at the place of diphtheria on the 8th inst. This is the second child that Mr. and Mrs. Hawley have lost by that disease within a few weeks, and a third is not expected to recover.

Eastern Oregon.

A brewery is about to be established at Weston.

The great increase in the number of registered letters sent from this office, and the much greater amount of money order business transacted during the last quarter, betokens a degree of prosperity.

The Weston Library Association, which was organized a few months ago, has already purchased over 250 volumes of good reading matter besides furnishing its members with many of the principal periodicals.

An enthusiastic meeting of the K. F. M. T. A. B. Society was held last night for the purpose of installing officers for the ensuing year. Ex-Grand Commander Jos. Burk installed the following named officers: Grand Commander, K. J. Dooling; Commander, Wm. Sheehy; S. V. Commander, Jas. A. Kelly; J. V. Commander, J. O'Hare; Recording Secretary, J. J. Powers; Financial Secretary, Jos. Burk; ——— Keeper, Jas. Foley; Sergeant-at-Arms, P. McGoff. After general order of business, remarks for welfare of the order were made by nearly all present. A social hour followed, recitations and well wishes for the prosperity of the society and all societies advocating temperance. Adjournment was then made to a neighboring restaurant, where the society indulged in refreshments.

Canadian Annexation.

Sir John Macdonald, ex-premier of Canada, made a speech at Toronto recently, in the course of which he discussed the question of Canadian independence, with its alternation of annexation to the United States. Among other things he said:

Independence is a farce. Canada must belong either to the British system or the American system. Here we are with four and a half millions of people, lying alongside of fifty-five millions; the most unhappy position in which a nation can be placed; the most crushing to its energies and its intellect, the most destructive to its prosperity, is that of living next door to and at the sufferance of a powerful neighbor. Look at Europe, and you see the position which small nations occupy. Look at Belgium and Holland—Belgium trembling for fear France will take her, and Holland in fear of Germany. There is no spirit, there is almost hopelessness in those countries. And I say, looking at the question of independence, that if we had to make a choice between independence and annexation, I would rather that we should have annexation and join with the United States at once, than to have a small nation, a dependent nation, obliged to raise the fanfare of an army and navy, obliged to have foreign ambassadors at an enormous expense, and after a brief existence to be absorbed as Texas and as California were absorbed and as Mexico will be absorbed.

SPOKANE COUNTY.

OBSERVATIONS OF THE COUNTRY, ABOUT SPOKANE FALLS.

Splendid Field for Home Seekers. Rich Farming and Stock Lands Awaiting Settlement.

SPOKANE FALLS, Jan. 10.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In my last letter to you of the 30th I closed a description of Spokane City. In this letter I will give a short outline of the agricultural districts around. The country immediately surrounding and tributary here is 700 square miles in extent, consisting of the Spokane, Prune and Moran prairies, besides the table lands of Deep creek, Little Spokane, Rock creek and some portions of Hangman creek, and Four Lakes and Pine grove. These districts afford the very best of farming lands, much of which is yet vacant. Other lands can be bought of the N. P. R. R. Co. at very low rates. Timber is abundant, and easy of access. In all the townships of these districts there is room for about 4500 families. The soil is a rich, black loam, and there is plenty of water and timber.

The great public highway of this country will be the grand railroad which will soon connect the great oceans together. Almost every kind of agricultural product that will grow in the temperate zone, grows here in great abundance and perfection. This is particularly true of the country lying west on the general course of the river for 60 miles. This section is being rapidly taken up by permanent settlers. North of the Spokane lies a great stretch of timber, and rich prairie land.

Persons merely passing through this region on the cars cannot form an accurate idea of the fine country in this Colville district. Five miles from the road is splendid farming land, rich, fertile and wonderfully productive, well watered and finely timbered. The yield of wheat on all the lands I have described is beyond belief. No foul plants grow upon these lands, no sorrel, wild oats, fern nor lambs-quarter. The yield of oats and barley is enormous, and of the best quality. Fruits, and vegetables grow on these lands abundantly.

A few farmers set out orchards in this district some years ago as a venture and have raised apples, pears, plums and soft fruits. Many others have lately set out orchards and tens of thousands of fruit trees will be planted out in these districts in the next few years.

This section of country far exceeds Illinois, Iowa or Missouri in quality and extent of rich wheat lands. The Big Bend of the Columbia river is attracting the attention of immigrants, as along the large district of rich wheat and grass lands there is sufficient timber for farm purposes. It is a little remote from market but that will soon be remedied. This district contains 80,000 acres of as fertile farming land as there is to be found any where in this territory. It abounds with pure living streams, and the black pine is not far distant in abundance. But little of this land has as yet been taken; hence thousands of settlers can find room. Part of the land is railroad and the balance government. The Indians have raised good corn here of the situation is exempt from frosts.

To sum up the whole, it may be safely stated that eastern Washington territory contains 20,000,000 acres of grain, prairie, bunch grass and timber lands, which can be taken by settlers. The great plateau of the Columbia is purely an agricultural region, exceedingly productive and affording also vast range for cattle, sheep and horses. The sowing season for wheat is the fall and winter months. In harvest time the weather is always dry. In nearly all of these large districts harvest machinery can work well. The meats and wool of these districts are superior. Bunch grass, beef and mutton is proverbially good. Immense numbers of horses and mules are raised here and they are of strong body, hardy and supply Western Oregon and Washington territory with many valuable work and riding horses. As the lands are broken up for grain and other purposes, the stock will be taken to the outskirts for bunch grass. That time is yet remote.

Until quite lately the opinion commonly prevailed that the bunch grass lands were unfit for cultivation. But experience has taught a different lesson. All bunch grass lands, whether set in sage brush or not, yield large crops of grain or vegetables. This grass is peculiar, not like any other grass in the states. It grows in large bunches five or six inches apart and is very strong and nutritious. It cures in the dry season and is as nourishing when dry as green. It possesses the fattening qualities of rye, barley, corn or oats; hence exceedingly fat beef and mutton are had from cattle and sheep pastured upon it. When it is not permitted to go to seed, it inclines to fall or be eat out. It is essentially a wild grass.

Spokane county is very large and will one day be divided up into three or four counties. At present its boundaries are east to the Idaho line and west to the Columbia river, 150 miles, and on the north are the Spokane and Columbia rivers. The N. P. R. R. cuts the county nearly in two in the middle, running nearly east and west. Hence there is a sure market at all the towns and stations on this road through this county. So mild is the climate here that no snow can ever obstruct the passage of the cars upon this road. As there are other districts to which I wish to call attention of immigrants who may desire to come to this vast grain empire, I will close this article and resume writing when I shall visit Cheney to-morrow. In passing that point on the cars I only spoke of it, as one of the towns we passed in coming here. It deserves a full notice.

DAVID NEWSOME.

Gen. Sherman's way of Putting it.

Gen. Tecumseh Sherman, on his return to Washington from Atlanta, when asked whether he believed the cotton exposition would help to reconcile the south with the other sections of the union answered:

It don't make any difference whether they are reconciled or not. The Almighty will take care of the century, I suppose, and he will see to that. If the people of the south are not reconciled, I don't see that it can trouble anybody except themselves. They will have to obey the laws of the country just like the rest of us, and I don't understand that their likes or dislikes are regarded in the matter.

THURSDAY EVENING, Jan. 12.

The wheat market has been dull during the past week, declining market in Europe exerting a depressing influence. The decline there on our grades of wheat has been fully $1 50 per ton. Our exporters have been enabled to keep the quotation up to $1 57½ in consequence of a decline in freight equal to the reduction on wheat abroad. The ships in port are having very quick dispatch, and by the end of next week all of those chartered will be about cleared out. There are some six ships in the river open to charter, and there are fourteen or fifteen ships due in this month yet to arrive. Steam ships are worth from 7s to 7s 6d, U. K. or spot, with a declining tendency.

ENGLISH MARKETS.

The Mark Lane Express, in its review for the past week, says: Young wheats are looking exceedingly weak in the provincial markets. Sound, dry samples of grain have advanced 1s per quarter and in some instances 2s. Damp sorts are difficult to sell. Oats, unchanged. Foreign breadstuffs closed easier. General position undoubtedly favorable to buyers. The market during the latter part of the week was rather more liberally supplied with flour, 2045 sacks and 501 bbls coming to hand Friday. Five sailths were from the United States. Trade is quiet. Maize maintains its firmness on account of the scarcity on spot. Fine foreign barleys are higher. Grinding sorts unchanged. On Friday there were ten fresh wheat cargoes remaining from the previous week. Nine sales are reported and five cargoes withdrawn. Sales of English wheat during the week, 34,020 quarters at 44s 9d per quarter, against 22,297 quarters at 43s 4d per quarter, during the corresponding week of last year.

Portland Produce Market.

Flour continues steady at quotations. Sales, however, are limited and stocks are still accumulating. Oats are very firm owing to favorable advices from San Francisco. Barley is steady with a prospect of an advance. There is good demand for timothy hay. Sales were made during the week above quotations. Mill feed is steadier than last week. The supply of middlings and shorts does not half meet the demand. Bran and chopped feed are very plentiful. We notice a gradual decline in prices of cured meats owing to the product of Oregon packers coming into market. We look for a decline in prices all 'round very shortly. Lard is in sympathy with cured meats. Keg lard in particular is decidedly weaker. There is considerable inquiry for dried apples, though sellers' views are much higher than buyers'. There is no sale or demand whatever for dried plums. There is little or nothing doing in hops. The quotations for this market are merely nominal. San Francisco transactions in hops are much lighter this week than last. Fancy fresh roll butter is extremely scarce and will bring most any price. Large shipments from California may be expected very shortly. The market is overstocked with second and third grade butters, and sale for them is very slow. Onions are in good demand and choice kinds bring top prices. Eggs continue steady at last week's quotations. If the present dry weather continues all advance may be expected. Cheese has advanced due up the week to 20c. The demand is fair. There is considerable inquiry for choice red apples. Little or no pears are in market. Chickens have advanced and the demand is very good. No change in salmon. Potatoes, owing to advices from below, are higher. The demand is very good at ruling prices. Nothing whatever is doing in wool. Following are quotations corrected to 6 P. M. to-day:

FLOUR—Standard brands $5; country, $4 25@4 50 superfine, $3 50@3 75.

OATS—50@55c per bushel.

BARLEY—$1 50@1 75 per cental.

HAY—Baled timothy, $14@16 ₱ ton.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure all;" it is a blood purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus finds existence in many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of the great generic disease, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Dizziness, General Debility, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, impurity of the blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most scientific and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.
